Youthful Challenge Sweeps Globe

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It began quietly, no one is sure when or where, and it awoke on campuses at the Sorbonne, Nanterre, Columbia, Berlin, Essex, Frankfurt, Rome, Kyoto, Madrid and other campuses that spark the villages and cities of the world.

It rallied around academic discontent, the fading role of the liberal arts graduate in the modern world, the need to specialize, inadequate classrooms, dottering professors restrictive rules. It rallied around groups already decrying the war in Vietnam.

It exploded this spring, welding the purpose of student and worker against low wages too much government the simple, inescapable horror of becoming part of the status quo.

This was the rebellion of the students, a revolt against established order, ignoring national boundaries, spreading like a contagious disease across Western Europe and on the other side of the Iron Curtain, as well as in American and parts of Asia.

"We have learned a great deal from the student revolt in Berkeley," said one of the leaders of the West German student revolt, referring to the 1964 furor at the University of California's Berkeley campus. "But we can see that the student movement in Europe is more political and theoretical. Much of the protest in the united States has a moral, and not a political basis."

Whatever the reasons -- and they were complex and varied -- the students tore up Tokyo, paralyzed Paris and beleaguered Berlin.

In March, Polish students in Warsaw began demanding reform, and soon Czechoslovakia moved somewhat toward a new kind of freedom in the Communist world.

Berlin students found an early martyr in Rudi Dutschke -- "Rudi the Red" -- who was shot and wounded in West Berlin on April 11, touching off demonstrations by students all over Europe.

In France, Daniel Cohn-Bendit -- "Dani le Rouge" -- became the leader in a movement which says it abhors leadership. On March 22, two days after windows were broken in the American Express office in Paris and three youths were arrested, Cohn-Bendit led an invasion of the administration building on the suburban Nanterre campus of the University of Paris. It was the spark that touched off a crisis that continues in France.

Early in June, about 2,000 leftist students occupied the campus of the University of Rome for three days and there was rioting in the streets of Naples, Turin and Lanciano.

Yugoslav college students occupied Belgrade university for eight days.

Even at ancient staid Oxford University in England, students smashed through iron gates grappled with police and staged a short-lived sit-in.

When things seemed to be quieting down a bit, they flared again. President Charles de Gaulle's government on June 12 ordered seven extremist student groups dissolved and banned all street demonstrations in an effort to halt bloody rioting in a new phase of the month-long dispute.

And, Cohn-Bendit suddenly arrived in London, bringing widespread reports that the student unrest in Britain is due for a spectacular change of course.

Dexter Child Center Approved

DEXTER — The U.S. Office of Education at Washington has approved the proposed regional child development center in the Dexter R-11 school district.

The announcement of the approval was made in Washington by Senators Stuart Symington and Edward Long and Rep. Paul C. Jones.

The amount sought to finance the center, $200,000, is still subject to negotiation.

The center would provide professional services for 58 school districts in Bollinger, Butler, Cape Girardeau, Carter, Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Ripley, Scott, Stoddard and Wayne counties.

If funds are approved by the end of the fiscal year June 30, the center is expected to begin operation in July. If funds are not approved, the center's opening would be delayed until January or July of 1969.

The center would make available services which are not available to all school districts in the 12-county area on a cooperative basis.

Areas of services include reading and guidance, as well as psychological and psychiatric.

Child Hostage Killed During Chase for Ex-Mental Patient

GRACEVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A mental patient home on his third trial release shot a policeman Wednesday night with his own gun, then led a huge posse on a woodlands manhunt that ended with the death of the gunman's 3-year-old hostage.

Police from seven departments in southern Alabama and the Florida Panhandle joined the chase after Graceville Patrolman Horace E. Patterson, 38, was shot in the head while trying to arrest the mental patient on a disorderly conduct warrant.

Virgil Fortune, a dairy worker passing the scene ordered his three young children to lie on the floor of his pickup truck and went to aid the wounded Patterson, Graceville Police Chief Clyde Pelham said today.

The gunman, identified by Pelham as Joseph E. McCants 29, struggled with Fortune and drove away with his truck and the children.

Deputies in Houston County, Ala., just across the border said McCants wrecked the truck, abandoned it and left two injured children inside. McCants held Francis Lee Fortune, 3, as a hostage.

Sheriff A. B. Clark of Houston County said McCants then took $30 and a truck in a holdup of Tom Ludlum, 65, at Cottonwood, Ala. Ludlum was wounded during a shootout with McCants deputies said.

Deputies said McCants then abandoned the child, dead from a bullet in the neck, and went into the woods. More than 100 searchers plunged after McCants into the dark forest and captured him several hours later after he was critically wounded by police bullets.

Officers said McCants who had three guns, denied shooting the child and officers said the boy may have been mortally wounded during the exchanges of gunfire.

Hearnes Briefs Legislators

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes urged the Missouri Legislature today to pass a capital improvement bill as quickly as possible.

In a message opening the second special session this year he expressed the hope the legislature could finish its work in far less than the constitutional limit of 90 days. The session could finish its work in two weeks or less.

Besides asking for a capital improvement bill carrying almost $33.8 million in general revenue, the governor gave the lawmakers power to look into impeachment charges against Circuit Judge John D. Hasler of Ladue and to consider ways to alleviate the financial problems of Kansas City and St. Louis.

"It is my hope that this can be short session; however, I do not wish to preclude the consideration in this session of legislation declared necessary to alleviate the financial condition of these cities."

St. Louis Mayor A. J. Cervantes has asked that certain court fees be increased and most St. Louis legislators are reported ready to go along with that idea.

Kansas City Mayor Ilus W. Davis has asked that citizens there be allowed to vote on raising the city's earnings tax from 1/4 to 1 per cent but a poll by the governor's office showed little interest among legislators from that area.

If the capital improvement bill passes in the recommended form approved by the House last spring, Hearnes said the uncommitted surplus in general revenue would be $18,653,801. That is close to the $20 million considered to be a safe operating balance in past years. Most senators who balked at the capital improvement bill last March are expected to approve it with that kind of a reserve in sight.

The governor's speech was one of the shortest messages in recent times — less than 400 words. The limited nature of the session's job was emphasized in the governor's closing remarks when he said:

"The difficult decision to exclude matters other than as enumerated was reached in the belief and in the hope that this second extra session could be terminated long before the constitutional 90-day limit had passed. I urge careful consideration of all capital improvement matters urban fiscal affairs and articles of impeachment if any, and your decisions as to each of them."

Earlier it had been thought an additional $50,000 would be necessary to help pay the National Guard's riot control costs in Kansas City last April. But that was not recommended because the guard has found enough money to pay the bill.

With the capital improvement bill as the main item of business there was little of the hoop-la and color attending the opening of a regular six-month legislative session.

The bill carries $33,769,361 in general revenue and additional federal or other funds to make the total around $40 million. Included is $5,353,550 in special funds. Most state institutions will share in the building funds. The bill is almost identical with one approved by the House last March except that an allotment for a science building at Southwest State College at Springfield is $600,000 smaller, thanks to a federal grant of that amount.

Besides the appropriation bill, which the House hopes to pass by Saturday, the House will consider possible impeachment of Circuit Judge John D. Hasler of Ladue.

Charges against him will be taken up next week. A special House committee recommended the action after he was indicted by a St. Louis County grand jury on charges of improper conduct in a divorce case. Judge Hasler, 56, has denied any romantic involvement with Mrs. Jean Shelby of Poplar Bluff, the plaintiff in the case.

Rifle-Shotgun Mail Ban Advances

WASHINGTON (AP) — A strict ban on mail order sales of rifles and shotguns was approved today by the House Judiciary Committee.

The vote came just a half day after President Johnson signed into law a similar prohibition dealing with pistols and revolvers and called for tighter restrictions over the sale of firearms.

The Senate Judiciary Committee also was scheduled to act today on legislation to ban shotgun and rifle sales by mail.

The bill approved by the House Judiciary Committee by a 29-6 vote would also prohibit the sale of rifles and shotguns to anyone living outside the state where the sale is made, or to anyone under 18.

House leaders have promised speedy action on the committee-approved bill which can probably be brought to a vote next week.

The Senate had knocked out of the crime bill a similar prohibition affecting rifles and shotguns shortly before Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was killed early this month.

Since then, Johnson has renewed his request for long gun controls, and with mail calling for tighter restrictions deluging Capitol Hill, favorable votes in both committees were expected.

Bills that go even farther and call for federal registration of all firearms have been introduced in both houses and are picking up support daily.

In signing the controversial crime bill on the last day before it would have become law without his acting, Johnson called its gun control provision "only a half-way step."

Controversy swirled around the bill practically to the last minutes with gun controls only a part of the cause.

The bill also contains the first congressional authorization for limited wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping and has a section intended to overturn Supreme Court decisions governing the admission of pistol or revolver to anyone not a resident of the state in which the sale is made, or to anyone under 21.

A Senate Judiciary subcommittee voted 9-0 Tuesday to approve the new measure.

In the House, the Judiciary Committee deadlocked 16-16, on the measure last week but many of the votes in opposition were a protest against the speed with which the committee was being asked to act, rather than against the bill. It had been introduced only the day before.

Rains, Strike Delay Opening of I-55 Link

Rainy weather and a one-month strike by heavy equipment operators will delay the opening of a 14-mile stretch of Interstate 55 from south of New Madrid to a point north of Portageville until mid-August.

William Shaw, district engineer with the State Highway Department said today.

The stretch was scheduled to be opened to traffic July 1.

Rainy spells in April and May combined with the strike, which affected all highway construction throughout the state, caused the delay. The strike ended Friday.

Work remaining to be completed before the section is opened includes construction of highway shoulders, finish grading, and fertilizing, seeding and mulching of the right-of-way.

1,882 in New Madrid Are Church Members

NEW MADRID—Figures released from a church census shows 1,882 report they are church members, or 76 per cent of the total population of 2,467. Twenty-three per cent were non-members and one per cent unknown.

The survey also reveals the population of the community has decreased 14 per cent since 1960 when it was 2,867. In 1950 the census showed a population of 2,726.

The percentage of the total population in the various churches was shown to be 27 per cent Baptist, which includes Missionary Baptist, First Baptist Free Will Baptist General Baptist and other Baptist. 19 per cent Catholic; 15 per cent Methodist, which includes First United Methodist and AME Methodist; 5 per cent Presbyterian; 4 per cent Pentecostal; 3 per cent Church of God in Christ; 2 per cent Church of Christ and 1 per cent others.

The survey was made by Mike Winter and Larry Moore, Jesuit seminarians from St. Stanislaus Seminary, Florissant in cooperation with the Ministerial Association.

Dispatcher Knocked Out In Attempted Robbery

A taxicab dispatcher for the floor during the scuffle, Yellow Cab Co., 827 West Malone, was attacked and knocked out by a Negro man who apparently was attempting to rob the cab office Wednesday.

Don Sturgeon, dispatcher told police the attack occurred at about 12:15 a.m. Wednesday.

Sturgeon said he was sitting in a chair near the front door when the Negro entered and jumped him, knocking the chair and him to the floor. The man knocked Sturgeon out with his fist, he said.

Sturgeon said he awoke about 10 minutes later and reported the incident to the Sikeston Police Department.

Nothing was taken, because no money is kept on hand in the office, Sturgeon said.

Two soft drink bottles and a desk drawer were knocked to the floor during the scuffle, Sturgeon told police.

In other activity, two men reported to be in their early 20's left the Cyrus Motel without paying their bill for a one night stay, police reported.

Eddie Vanover, Sikeston, reported to police at 12:30 p.m. Wednesday that a green tool box containing all types of tools valued at about $120 was taken from the trunk of his car sometime since Saturday.

House Nears Final Approval on 10 Per Cent Income Surcharge

WASHINGTON (AP) — controversy and delay.

The Senate, anticipating House approval today, has scheduled its own vote Friday.

If the anticipated script is followed, everyone in the country who now has federal income tax deducted from his paycheck will find the tax bite 10 per cent bigger in about three weeks.

That means a worker now having $50 per week withheld for income tax would have $55 withheld until next June and possibly longer.

Tied to the increase in taxes is a mandatory $6-billion cut in government spending in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Johnson fought the spending cut as excessive. But he finally agreed to the measure because of what he called the overriding need for more revenues to shrink a deficit estimated at $24 billion to $31 billion, check inflation and bolster the dollar internationally.

The Senate already has voted for a similar package, but must consider the final version.

Broadway Actor Strike Settled

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay announced today a settlement of the three-day strike by Actors Equity that darkened 19 Broadway theaters and nine road company shows.

After meeting through the night at Gracie Mansion with negotiators for the union and the League of New York Theaters Lindsay said at 6 a.m.: "Performances in the Broadway theaters will be resumed tonight."

For individuals, the effective tax increase this year would be 7.5 per cent of their total tax bill, because for them the surtax is retroactive to April 1. For corporations, it covers the full year 1968.

As the bill is written, the surtax would expire June 30, 1969, but its principal architect, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has already raised the possibility of an extension if the nation cannot put its financial house in order by then.

POOR CHARLIE SUGGESTS:

That you study the qualifications of Warren Hearnes for Governor.

Edward L. Dowd for Lt. Governor.
Russell Millin for Attorney General.
William E. Robinson for State Treasurer.
David Rolwing for Congress.
Tom Eagleton for United States Senator.

THE POOR COMPLAIN

The Poor People's Campaign "National Day of Support" is still scheduled for Wednesday, June 19.

TO FIND OUT WHY the poor complain, Robert Southey wrote, "come walk abroad with me." The poor who complain in the nation's capital will walk abroad themselves on Wednesday. The effectiveness of the demonstration is in question, for the Poor People's Campaign is in deep, deep trouble.

The March on Washington was planned as a "massive and militant" non-violent demonstration. So far it has been more militant than massive. The Washington press, according to William Raspberry, a Negro reporter, "has if anything been too kind" in reporting the troubles of Resurrection City.

The top leadership of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference was absent during the early days of the campaign. Even after they did arrive, some of them spent bad-weather nights at a nearby motel, to the distinct annoyance of those bedded down in the muddy shantytown near the Washington Monument.

The big demonstration was to have taken place over the Memorial Day weekend. But from the beginning Resurrection City was plagued by hooliganism, unsanitary conditions approaching squalor, boredom, aimless demonstrations, chilling rain, and an increasing disarray among those who were supposed to organize.

WHAT WAS TO HAVE BEEN a "new city of hope and love" became a sloppy shambles. The Rev. Jesse Jackson, one of the more effective early leaders and the first manager of Resurrection City, was reassigned to Chicago after a run-in with the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, successor to the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. as SCLC leader. Some say a personality cult had begun to build around Jackson.

Bayard Rustin, who structured the August 1963 March on Washington, on June 7 dropped out as coordinator of this year's march. The specific agreements between Rustin and the SCLC leadership, in Raspberry's phrase, were "rejected, publicly and gracefully." Rustin was replaced as march organizer by 44-year-old Sterling Tucker, executive director of the Washington Urban League. Tucker is being assisted by David P. Rusk, the 27-year-old son of Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

THE FAMOUS civil rights march on Washington five years ago surprised observers by its general atmosphere of friendliness and good manners. The march next Wednesday is somewhat the same in design. After a morning of entertainment at the Monument, the demonstrators will move to the Lincoln Memorial for an afternoon rally. Tucker pledges no acts of civil disobedience or separate protests on Wednesday by the Poor People's Campaign.

The 1963 march drew more than 200,000 to Washington. It now seems unlikely that the National Day of Support—or "Solidarity Day," as it is alternatively called—will do nearly so well. As this is written the population of Resurrection City has dwindled to about 500. One of the campaign's strongest supporters, Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill.), on June 9 urged the people to leave the enclave "as soon as possible, once they have made their point." Their permit expires on June 16.

Although it may be a let-down—or even a disaster, should real violence erupt—the Poor People's Campaign should not be counted entirely a failure. The Senate has passed a $5.5 billion housing bill. Some progress on jobs may be expected. But Congress so far has proved remarkably aloof to this year's march.

There is no Easy Street if you are to amount to anything.

SIGNIFICANT ENDORSEMENT

The campaign of Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, seeking the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator, got another shot in the arm last night with the endorsement of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, one of the state's most influential newspapers. The St. Louis publication likened Lt. Gov. Eagleton to the late Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., one of the Senate's most progressive liberty while serving in the Congress.

The Post-Dispatch endorsement of the state's second executive officer comes on the heels of Eagleton's endorsement of the state's second executive officer comes on the heels of Eagleton's endorsement by the Kansas City-backed C.C.P., a citizens' reform movement that controls the largest single bloc of votes in Missouri. One is inclined to believe that if Eagleton's backers for the Senate nomination continue in such number and prestige he may be the obvious choice by Tuesday, August 6.

In its endorsement of Eagleton, the Post-Dispatch made an interesting observation about the candidate who has successfully served as St. Louis Circuit Attorney, Missouri Attorney General and now the state's Lieutenant Governor. The newspaper said that Eagleton, if elected, has the capacity to be the kind of U.S. Senator that Eugene McCarthy and the late Robert F. Kennedy have been. The newspaper noted that Eagleton, if elected, has the capacity to be the kind of U.S. Senator that Eugene McCarthy and the late Robert F. Kennedy have been. The newspaper noted that Eagleton offers Democrats a new face, a new image in a year in which both are important.

While Eagleton has been sticking to the issues, a good many Missourians may have the idea that the incumbent junior U.S. Senator, Edward V. Long, is more interested in cronyism than serving with any degree of distinction in the world's most exclusive political organization. Sen. Long's campaign, to date, has been based on his appeal to special interest groups, with particular emphasis on organized labor support. In case any one is deceived, organized labor has already been told who its candidate is to be: Ethical Ed.

The third party in the Democratic race is True Davis, of St. Joseph, whose campaign thus far has been disappointing except in the amount of money being spent for advertising. Davis may achieve some kind of a record in terms of dollars spent to gain the nomination, but thus far he has failed to discuss critical issues that need frank discussion and fresh approaches. It is not too late for him to begin to discuss his views on the important issues of the day, but to date he has seemed to be more content with a large expenditure of cold cash to purchase votes and to make his name well known.

A good many Missourians, including this newspaper, have yet to make a selection in the August Senatorial campaign, but on the basis of developments to date, it would appear that Lt. Gov. Eagleton offers the kind of choice that should appeal to the majority of independent Democrats in Missouri.

WHAT DEBT INTEREST COULD DO FOR US

While most Americans are suspicious of the so-called cut in federal spending now under discussion, Rep. John Myers (R-Ind.) points out that the interest on the national debt — $14.4 billion — now ranks third in all spending categories. Then he lists some of the things this huge sum could do for the American people if they didn't have to give it to the tax collector:

"That $14,400,000,000 could provide a pair of $12 shoes every other month for a whole year for every man, woman and child in the U.S.

"It could provide nice new $15,000 homes for 960,000 families.

"It could mean shiny new $2,500 automobiles for 5,760,000 proud owners.

"It could build 14,400 million-dollar grammar schools to meet expanding community needs.

"It could build 3,000 completely equipped high schools at a cost of $4.8 million apiece.

"It could provide a college education for 1 1/2 million Americans.

"If that same amount could be invested in industry, it could create more than 660,000 production jobs."

These are just some of the ways this money could be put to productive use in building a bigger and better America for all if the government had not piled up the massive national debt which now totals nearly $365 billion.

This is one of the main issues in the present election and let's not forget it when we consider the candidates and their promises — and vote right!

What a transformation could be made in Sikeston if residents could see their city daily with the eyes of a stranger?

As it is people hurry to and from work without so much as a glance at familiar landmarks, eyesores, beauty spots, the birds and the bees, the flora and a fauna, the flowers and the weeds, the neat expanses of concrete, the broken pavement and chipped mortar.

They put up with inconveniences in street routes and tolerate the ugly because they have grown accustomed to them. Humans are such creatures of habit.

These observations are not based entirely and negatively on nearly blind acceptance of the familiar, ugly sights and tolerance of undesirable conditions.

Unfortunately they apply with equal force to beauty spots and the eye appealing sights and the desirable conditions as well.

Sherman Grant urges Sikestonians to get into their automobiles and drive to the business section from the airport along the route taken by industrial prospects.

The ride, of course, would serve no purpose unless they looked at Sikeston through the eyes of a stranger.

Another appeal to shed the fog of familiarity comes from sixth and seven grade students of St. Francis Xavier school.

The students toured Sikeston with the idea of relating their environment with Christian values for everyday living. What a wonderful idea?

The students were disturbed by the litter in the streets and the obscenities written on rest room walls in theaters and schools.

There are many standpoints from which a constructive view could be taken of surroundings from an objective standpoint—health, safety, beauty, satisfaction, esthetic among others.

The effort could produce action that would far transcend any short lived Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up campaign.

Streets would be repaired.
Pot holes would be removed.
Eyesores would go.
Houses would be painted.
Businesses houses would be renovated and painted.
Delapidated structures would be torn down.
Parks and malls would spring up.
Sidewalks and curb and gutter would be added in many residential areas. Weeds would go. Grass and flowers would flourish. Litter would vanish.

Our daily life would be more convenient, healthy, safer and satisfying.

These changes wouldn't mean much unless residents maintained an objective viewpoint. They must not slip back into the old habits.

They must be determined to maintain the improved appearance and continue to pursue the goal of civic improvements.

Constant awareness and vigilance would be needed to replace apathetic indifference.

THE C.I.A. The best evidence that the CIA housecleaning administered by Admiral Raborn was necessary is the cacophony of attacks on the CIA by the dismissed payrollers. It is important to note, also, that almost all of the ill-advised and ill-fated projects which he cancelled, and which we have been reading about, had their beginnings a dozen or more years ago. Certainly not all of the bleats have yet been heard. More and more security breaches must be expected as terminated turncoatsattle all they can tell. Some will be sensational. But for the most part they will be the last gasp of the discharged "Frank Wisner" teams recruited by that long-time head of the operational arm of the CIA.

It should be mentioned in passing that in England, for example, these babbling soreheads would be put into jail under the Official Secrets Act. In our country, they bask in the warm glow of liberal-left publicity. Admiral Raborn put an end to the Wisner era. Wisner himself is dead. Washington police say he took his own life (as had his friend, Philip Graham, of the Washington Post, before him). His job done, Admiral Raborn his gleaming pate. "You're

NEW YORK (AP) — It was an ordinary luncheon meeting with one of them that to spend their nearby quick service grill and beaneery, the "In-and-Out Club."

They were hen-pecking their problems as usual. A curious male bystander heard these typical examples of current female prose in the industrial arena:

"I would rather stay single forever than marry any of the available jerks in my place."

"He isn't a bad guy to work for if you don't mind spending eight hours a day with a person who wears a clip-on 75-cent bow tie and whose mind falls apart at 9:02 a.m."

"I would describe him as an employer who is just finding out he is tied alive to a wife he doesn't want to be found dead with."

"When he uses a word I don't understand, I simply cross my legs—and he starts the sentence all over again."

"His basic problem is that his wife does understand him—and so do I."

"Watch out for Maude. She always orders a third one because her boss has four at lunch—and that means she doesn't have to worry about him being able to smell her breath after lunch."

"I hate to go to business and have the kids come home to an empty house. But if I don't go to business, how can we afford a color television set and you know how important color television is to the modern child."

"Mabel... Mabel honey... don't look so blue. You were right and he was wrong, you know. Anyway, none of them are worth it."

"I don't care how much trouble men are, I'd rather argue with one of them than to spend my life cutting up beef kidneys for a cat."

"Well, if the rest of you girls think we should have another round, heaven knows I don't want to be the only kill-joy in the crowd."

"Yeah, don't look at the table to the right now. It's the homely guy who is staring at me. Pretend you don't notice. Maybe the guy next to him—he's better looking—will turn this way. I think he's playing hard to get."

"Well, girls, shall those of us who are free go to an educational program this evening, or meet at somebody's house and take off our shoes and have fun?"

"See him over there—the one with the blue eyes and his mouth full of corned beef and cabbage? Ny-uss, huh. Ny-uss! For him I'd give my blood to the Red Cross."

"I could get a merit raise anytime I want to, but up to now I don't need a merit raise that much."

"Will somebody please tell Mildred to pull her skirt down? This is a business girls' luncheon, not a burlesque show."

"My husband will probably meet me after work. After all, he should. I lent him the money to put gas in the car."

"Well, girls, shall we head back to the salt mine and start finding out where our bosses are trying to hide out for the rest of the day?"

"Yes, here comes Freddy with the check. Okay, girls, everybody get out their pens and pencils and start figuring. Was it right, or was it wrong, you know, Agnes who ordered the chicken salad or the super club sandwich?"

The important fact is that the incredible clique which ran the operational arm of the CIA for so many years with a brazen contempt for the Congress—and sometimes even for the White House—has been broken up and tried from opposition of power. And none too soon.

A middle-aged executive was becoming increasingly irritated by the constant ribbing he received at the hands of junior employees who couldn't resist making fun of his baldness. approach, giving a tax credit to businesses for vocational training."

It is becoming quite evident that the policy of throwing huge sums of money aimlessly at the problem will not solve it. Rebuilding cities and changing the cultural environment and level of education and training of millions of our citizens overnight is beyond the financial and administrative capacity of our national government. It is time to try a different approach.

The shapely stenographer shocked the office one morning by passing out cigars to the men and candy to the girls.

Exhibiting a huge diamond ring, she said: "It's a boy—6 feet tall, 26 years old and 185 pounds!"

You should work hard and save your money, and when you're old, you can have the things only your people enjoy.

Betha Didn't Know... The American Way is using instant coffee to dawdle away an hour.

A good place for reflective tape is the edge of the driver's side door on your car. At night the tape will be easily seen by oncoming motorists, warning them that your door is open.

Judge—"How did you happen to run over that little sports car?"

Defendant—"Your honor, I looked right and I looked left, but I just forgot to look down."

A tall youngster, standing 7 feet 2 inches, applied for the lifeguard's job. "Can you swim?" was the first question.

"No," the boy replied, "but I can wade just about any place."

"Why did you fire that secretary she had?"

"She couldn't spell—kept asking me how to spell every other word when she took dictation."

"And you couldn't stand the interruptions?"

"It wasn't that. I just didn't have time to look up all those words."

The longest tug-of-war ever contested lasted two hours 41 minutes, and took place in India in 1889 between two companies of British infantry.

Badly soiled shirts and pants, used in garden or workshop, will come cleaner if soaked for about 15 minutes in hot sudsy water containing a half-cup of household ammonia before being put in washing machine.

H.L. Hunt Says

A HERO'S MEMORY U. S. citizens are often urged to forget that the communists are our enemies, and regard them instead as merely representing a different point of view. The evils that they do now should be ignored, and those they have done in the past should be erased from memory. But if our country and our freedoms are to be secure, we must never close our eyes to the true nature of communism past and present.

One incident from the past illuminates the methods of the communists with special clarity. Ten years ago, Povl Bang-Jensen, an assistant secretary of the United Nations Committee on Hungary, investigated the 1956 uprising in that country. During his investigation he acquired the names of many Hungarian refugees who had participated in the revolt against communist oppression.

He was ordered by U.N. officials to hand over these names, but refused to do so because he knew they would immediately become available to Soviet workers at the United Nations. This knowledge would undoubtedly lead to severe reprisals against the families of these refugees still in Hungary.

Tremendous pressure was brought to bear against him, but he refused to yield. Finally he was summarily fired and ejected from the U. N. building by guards. Death came in 1959, with strong evidence that he was murdered by the communists.

Bang-Jensen's heroism is all but forgotten today. Yet his story clearly shows that the communists will stop at nothing to achieve their goals. The nature of communism is clear. We must not blind ourselves to its evil.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

DREW PEARSON AND Mark Rudd, who last fall visited Cuba as the guest of Fidel Castro, wrote a secret strategy program for Columbia, giving step-by-step plans to take over student movement is left of the University, which follows in Communism; Another majority part:

—CHART FOR REVOLT—

"To be militant is to fight to achieve a specific goal: Let us clearly state that our goal is to end university complicity with the war: IDA (Institute for Defense analysis), ROTC, CIA contracts, recruiting, etc. But we can never force the university to submit to our demands unless we have behind us the strength of the majority of students on campus."

We can achieve this in one of two ways: 1. We can reach for more participation in political life, which took the form of doorbell ringing for Sen. Eugene McCarthy and Sen. Bobby Kennedy.

It also has international political overtones, as when Berlin students paralyzed the newspapers of Axel Springer, who is so pro-west that his plant is built practically on the Berlin wall. His competitors encouraged the student revolt to the point that Der Spiegel bored its readers with nine issues carrying page after page on the battle of Springer vs. Students.

One significant aspect of the student revolt, however, is the manner in which a small minority—less than one percent—represented by the students for a Democratic society, was able to paralyze Columbia University.

The students for a democratic society had broken away from the Moderate National Student Association in 1962 to organize the "New Left" for American campuses. Last August, while the National Student Association was meeting at the University

TOO MANY WORDS
DALLAS (AP) — Communication experts are calling this the age of communication, but a Chicago advertising executive said at a meeting here it is the age of "communication pollution."

Edward H. Weiss, head of a major agency, said that in addition to the pollution of water and air by modern industrial techniques, "we are also suffering from the pollution of words."

"People communicate when they speak freely, deeply and meaningfully to each other," he said.

Weiss asserted that words are tools that can be used for three purposes: express thoughts, conceal thoughts and camouflage the fact that there are no thoughts at all.

He writes a communication revolution: urge less, read less, answer less. He advocates the spoken word in person for inter-office communications.

UNUSUALLY USUAL
NEW DELHI (AP) — President Zakir Husain recently expressed a desire to visit a school on a "normal working day." His staff went to work on the request.

When the president arrived at the school, he was greeted at the gate by the Board of Governors, the principal and student leaders. The National Cadet Corps passed in review. A frenzy of activity took place in the classrooms, with special puppetry shows, photo exhibits and cooking competition.

Deborah Leigh Shelby Says Vows With David Williams

EAST PRAIRIE - The Nelson Memorial Methodist church was the setting June 8 at 5 p.m. for the wedding of Miss Deborah Leigh Shelby and David Williams. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Shelby, Jr. of East Prairie and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Williams of Wyatt.

The double ring ceremony, performed by the Rev. Robert Burke, was held before an altar setting of lighted tapers in a 15 branch arch candelabra, flanked on either side by twin nine branch candelabra. Baskets of pink stock and variegated pastel shades were used in decorating the chancel rail and choir loft. The windows of the church were filled with greenery, centered with hurricane lamps, holding glowing white tapers. The family pews were marked with pastel ribbon and hurricane standards.

Orville Almond, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Webb at the organ, sang "More", "Ich Liebe Dich" and at the close of the ceremony the "Lord's Prayer" while the couple knelt.

The bride, escorted down the white carpeted aisle by her father, chose for her wedding a formal gown of white silk organza and bridal silk. The high bateau neckline rose above a flowing cape, fashioned of organza over a demi-fitted sheath and the brief sleeves were fashioned entirely of lace.

The former Miss Shelby chose as her matron of honor, Mrs. Fred Williams of Columbia. Serving her sister as her maid of honor was Miss Susan Shelby. Miss Barbara Shelby, sister of the bride, Miss Pam Kriesse and Miss Sandra Felts, cousins of the bride, were her bridesmaids. Miss Mari T. Shelby, youngest sister of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid. Candelights were Miss LaDonna Johnson and Miss Deborah Coots. The honor attendants and candelights were attired identically in formal gowns of petal pink silk organza. The easy cape style was fashioned with a high square neckline outlined in white lace insertions and brief sleeves designed entirely in the lace pattern were featured. Their headresses were simulated butterfly petals accented with seed pearls, to which shoulder length veils of matching pink laces were attached. They wore matching shoes and short white gloves. The bridesmaids carried white wicker baskets of pink rosebuds and blue, pink and white Killian daisies and springer. The candelights wore wristlet corsages of pink rosebuds.

Williams chose his brother Fred Williams of Columbia, as his best man. Groomsman were Charles Babb, Albert Leigh, Michael Dugan, Bruce and Michael DeField. Serving as ushers were Lee Felts, Stephen Yoakum, Charles Lutz and Jon Carson. The groom wore a lily of the valley boutonniere.

Mrs. Travis Shelby, Jr. chose for her daughter's wedding an original design, an afternoon frock of french embossed silk in haze blue. The bias and a-line skirt was fashioned in easy panels and the coat style was accented with jeweled buttons. She wore matching accessories of haze blue and white.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Donald Williams, wore a gown fashioned in Grecian green. The gown featured a jeweled neckline and short sleeves. Her accessories were in pearlized silver and her headress was of Grecian green organza petals accented with seed pearls.

Both mothers wore white gladioli corsages. The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. W. M. Chapman of Charleston, was an ensemble of beige lace with matching accessories, a pink cymbidium orchid. Her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Fred Williams of Charleston, was attired in a pink silk dress with which she wore white accessories and a white orchid.

Following the ceremony, the reception was held in the Charleston Country Club. The club was decorated throughout with seven branch candelabra against a backdrop of palms and other greenery. Arrangements of variegated daisies and candelabra adorned the mantle.

The bride's table was covered with a white peau de soie cloth overlaid with white net draped at the corners with white satin bells and bows. The four tiered candelabra wedding cake centered the table, graced on either side by silver candelabra. A cluster of wedding bells topped the cake, a silver punch bowl and coffee service completed the table appointments. Miss Deborah Woodard served at the punch bowl, Miss Maria Adkison presided at the coffee service and Mrs. Lee Stallings served the wedding cake. Each wore corsages of pink rosebuds. Misses Tommie Ann and Janey Britt handed out rice bags of pink net tied in a darker shade of pink yarn, placed in white baskets tied with pastel bows, to the guests at the reception.

Following a wedding trip to New Orleans and Biloxi, Miss. the couple will be at home in East Prairie until fall when Williams will leave to attend Baylor University in Waco, Texas.

The bride graduated from Charleston high school and attended Cumberland Junior College in Lebanon, Tenn. last year.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding were from St. Louis, Sikeston and Jefferson City, Mo.; Belleville, and Cairo, Mo.; Paducah, Ky.

Mrs. and Mr. Alex C. Waters announce the engagement of their daughter Teresa Hope Waters to Jay Michael Gillette.

Miss Waters is a 1965 graduate of Sikeston high school. She is attending Southeast Missouri State College in Cape Girardeau, where she is majoring in accounting. She is a member of the Beta Xi chapter of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority. She has served as delegate to the Junior Panhellenic and Junior Panhellenic Council. Miss Waters also was appointed recording secretary of her sorority.

Silvana Mirabella June Bride of Douglas Sitzes

Miss Silvana Mirabella and Douglas N. Sitzes were married at 3 p.m. June 9 at the Pentecostal Holiness church.

The Rev. Freeman Parker officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The former Miss Mirabella is the daughter of Mrs. Josephine Sacco of Naples, Italy, and the late Vincent Mirabella. Sitzes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert E. Sitzes, 928 Linn St.

A basket of white gladioli with palms on each side decorated the church altar.

Eddie Hubbard, pianist, played "I Love You Truly." He played the wedding march from "Mid-Summer Nights Dream," as the bride was escorted to the altar by Hubert Sitzes who gave her in marriage.

She wore a formal length gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta. The gown was worn over a southern belle hoop. The close-fitted bodice featured a sabrina neckline and long fitted sleeves that came to points over her hands. The bouffant skirt fell into a cascade of sequin trimmed scalloped ruffles. The back of the dress swept to a chapel-length train.

Her headress was a queen's crown made of simulated pearls and handcut crystals. Attached was a bouffant veil of imported silk illusion.

She carried a cascade arrangement of white carnations with streamers of white and blue ribbons tied in lovers' knots.

Best man was Larry Roberts. A reception was held in the church dining room. The bride's table was covered with the white damask cloth caught at each corner with white wedding bells.

A crystal punch service and a three tiered white and blue wedding cake appointed the table.

All-Star, All-America Football Games Set

NEW YORK (AP)—The first five men picked in the pro football draft are among the 21 rookies who will play in both the Coaches' All-America game at Atlanta June 28 and the Tribune All-Star game against Green Bay at Chicago Aug. 2.

Ron Yary, the big tackle from Southern California who was the No. 1 special bonus pick by Minnesota, acquired in the Fran Tarkenton deal a year ago, heads the list.

Mauch Has No Kicks

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gene Mauch said he had no kicks about the way the Philadelphia Phillies handled his dismissal as manager.

The 42-year-old Mauch held a news conference Wednesday. He said there was no graceful way to fire a guy.

Mauch also refused to knock slugger Richie Allen, whose feud with the manager was one of the major factors in Mauch's firing Saturday by Phillies' owner Bob Carpenter and General Manager John Quinn.

"I'm not knocking Richie Allen," he said. "That son-of-a-gun gave me many a thrill."

As for the Phillies firing him while he was in California at the bedside of his ailing wife Mauch said there was no other way to handle the situation.

"When two people know something there is no secret. Bob and John made up their minds to fire me. They had to get somebody and had to tell the guy."

"It made me almost ill to hear the organization rapped. It would have been 10 times worse if I heard it elsewhere."

Mauch said he hopes to remain in baseball "Number one, of course, you have to be offered a job. But I don't intend to stay out of baseball unless baseball stays away from me."

"I want to be in uniform on a baseball field. It's the greatest way of life."

Mauch said, however he hadn't talked with a soul about a job. "Until I got in the plane Monday to come back to Philadelphia I hadn't given one thought to my future. I was scared about my wife. But she is okay."

KANSAS CITY AP—Inspired by their largest crowd in regular North American Soccer League play this season and Eric Barber's four goals, the Kansas City Spurs defeated the Dallas Tornado, 6-1, Wednesday night.

The Spurs not only padded their Gulf Division lead over Houston to 12 points, 70-58, but attracted 13,641 spectators.

Kansas City now has seven victories, four losses and two ties while winless Dallas has 12 losses and two ties.

KANSAS CITY AP—Three more draft choices signed with the Kansas City Royals baseball team Wednesday, and will report to the Corning, N. Y., Rookie League this weekend.

The three are John Uelson, 18, of Duarte, Calif.; Richard Long, 21, Pittsburgh, Kan. State College; and Vernon Paul Walker, 21, Colorado School of Mines.

Long and Walker are both right-handed pitchers. Uelson is an outfielder.

A compilation by Don Weiss, NFL Director of information, shows the home team won less than one-half the time in 1967. The final breakdown was 55 wins for the home team, 48 for the visitors and nine ties among 112 regular season games.

Baltimore had the best home record, 6-0-1, and Los Angeles was the best on the road, 6-0-1.

RON JAYNES

It's a... girl!
Another cheerleader for my family. A girl, six pounds to be exact, arrived by special carrier yesterday at 5:20 p.m. at the Missouri Delta Community hospital. I've always dreamed of a basketball team... but had a change of heart during the night to a cheerleading squad as the girl marked the second for my wife (Delilah) and me.

At least we evened the odds a little... Yesterday while at the hospital it was learned that the boys outnumber the girls 3-1 (the exact count), so the odds are 3-2 and if the women expecting triplets were to have all girls... it surely would be a different ward.

Our oldest daughter at three years of age remarked when told of the new arrival... "Daddy... you changed your mind..." yes! was the reply!!

Seven-foot center Rich Niemann of St. Louis University, top National Basketball Association draft choice signed Monday with the Detroit Pistons.

Niemann led the Billikens in scoring and rebounding the past two seasons averaging about 17 points and 12 rebounds per game.

Ray Lavender 7-foot basketball player at Kansas state University, will transfer to Drury College this fall. Coach Bill Harding has announced.

Lavender, who was redshirted at K-State last season, will become eligible in the spring semester next year and will be available for the last half of Drury's schedule, Harding said.

Lavender went to K-State from St. Louis Lindberg.

Wilt Chamberlain says he's prepared to sit out the coming National Basketball Association season if the Philadelphia 76ers don't meet his contract demands.

Chamberlain also said he wouldn't mind playing under the coaching of General Manager Jack Ramsay—a departure from his previous position.

Ramsay, who resigned as coach at St. Joseph's College because of health, has always given a flat "No" when asked if he might lift the shoes of departed Coach Alex Hannum. But, when asked about it Thursday, he replied "I'd rather not talk about that."

Chamberlain has said he'd play only under Hannum, himself or Frank McGuire, coach at the University of South Carolina. But in an interview Friday he said: "I would have no objections playing for Ramsay. He's more qualified in present circumstances than anyone else."

On the matter of pay, Chamberlain said: "Some guys are satisfied with what they're getting, but I'm not one of them. I'd rather sit out a year and make zip zero than make something less. That's how much I think about it."

Chamberlain reportedly made more than $250,000 last year.

Private campgrounds are rapidly becoming an important factor in the camping picture. And they are being welcomed by a public that finds the demand for facilities greater than the supply in many areas.

One of the newest and most modern installations in the country is Club Americana campground, opened this spring nine miles west of Columbia, Mo., on heavily traveled Interstate 70. This unusual example of private enterprise operating in an area traditionally left to state and federal government has been greeted with enthusiasm by visitors.

It offers facilities and services attuned to the needs of modern campers, and their increasingly more complex recreational equipment. Besides the basics of sparkling washrooms and showers, campers will find a coin-operated laundry and complete grocery. The new installation is located on a heavily wooded 1000-acre recreational area and presently handles up to 200 units.

While the familiar tent is still very much a part of the scene, the impact of luxury vehicles has created the necessity of fully underground utility hookups and other specialized services to fully accommodate guests.

The growing size of travel trailers, for instance, has discouraged the fine art of backing into camp sites. Thus, travelers pulling larger rigs prefer to drive straight into and out of a slot. Such requirements become basic items in a modern camp.

William Houston, who manages Club Americana as a summer respite from regular college biology teaching chores at Christian College in Columbia, cites the camp's large swimming pool as a major attraction.

"The pool, alone, virtually lifts a campground into the resort class," he says. And, as in luxury resorts and motels, swimming privileges are included in the basic campsite rate. Pool fees are usually extra charges in public campgrounds.

Another unique feature that commands attention is availability of furnished rental tents. Permanently set-up with solid floors and equipped with comfortable beds, these tents appeal to campers and non-campers alike. Guests supply own bedding, but stoves and lanterns are available if desired.

The campground is associated with the nationwide Safari Camp system which maintains rigid standards among its members, as well as introducing the rental tent concept to the public.

Affiliation with parent organizations is another positive trend in the private sector of the camping business, closely paralleling that of the motel industry.

Luxury campgrounds of the Club Americana caliber are predicted to increase rapidly in number over the next several years, Houston believes.

The booming popularity of camping is overtaking public facilities, creating a vacuum that private capital is just beginning to recognize.

The final result is expected to be a healthy situation for both campers and the industry. And it should relieve harried public officials of some of the pressure they now face.

The future for private campgrounds which stress quality and service appears highly promising, all observers agree.

A heavy growth of an aquatic weed in the Gravois Arm of Lake of the Ozarks has caused some concern to anglers and lake operators in the area. The weed, identified as water milfoil by Fishery Biologist James Whitley, can be a nuisance to anglers but can result in better fishing. According to Whitley, reports from dock operators state that carp fishing has actually improved during the past year in weedy places.

Conditions favorable to water milfoil—clear hard water nutrients and cool temperatures—are features of the Gravois Arm. Whitley said, "Control of the weed is possible in heavily used areas around boat docks, swimming areas and boat lanes, but its eradication is impossible," he stated.

A safe herbicide which has a rapid effect on the weed with no hazard to fish is Aquathol granules, 200 pounds to the acre. Whitley said, Aquathol Plus granules, containing silvex, has a more lasting effect, but acts slower. Cost of such treatment is about 38 cents per pound, and the chemicals are available through farm supply stores.

Whitley said the granules should be spread evenly over the surface of the weed beds when the plants are growing vigorously. Annual treatment probably will be necessary, until heavy growth is reduced by natural causes. Similar weed problems can be expected to develop in other parts of the Lake after Kaysinger Reservoir is completed, he said.

Carlton Post's 4th Shutout

ST. LOUIS AP—"I can't let Nellie get ahead of me," Steve Carlton said Wednesday night after he had pitched a brilliant 4-0, one-hit victory for the St. Louis Cardinals over the Chicago Cubs.

The win gave Carlton an 8-2 record and pulled him even in wins with teammate Nelson Briles, 8-5, who shutout the Cubs 1-0 Tuesday night. It was Carlton's fourth shutout this season.

Carlton, a 6-foot-4, lefthander, struck out nine and walked none in winning his first game since June 4.

Billy Muffett, Cardinal pitching coach, said Carlton "looked real, real good. His curve ball was really biting."

Muffett said that Carlton had a full count on only two batters and threw only 102 pitches.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Cubs agreed that Carlton pitched a great game as Chicago extended its scoreless streak to 37 innings.

"He pitched a helluva ball game," Durocher said.

Glenn Beckert was the only Cub to get a hit—a clean single in the top of the fourth inning.

"Beckert hit a fast ball," Carlton said after the game. "It was a good hit, although I thought the pitcher was a ball."

Orlando Cepeda's three-run homer in the bottom of the third got Carlton an early lead and he was never in trouble. No runner reached second base as Carlton pitched the first nine of his major league career.

"Beautiful, beautiful," said Cepeda after the victory. "He hit a low, inside pitch from his eighth homer."

It was the Cardinals' fourth straight victory, enabling them to maintain their 5 1/2 games lead over Atlanta.

Carlton, a 23-year-old pitcher from Miami, Fla., says he sticks mainly with a fast ball and curve.

Perhaps Carlton felt best about now allowing a base on balls. "I had real good concentration tonight," Carlton explained.

BRISTOL, England (AP)—Clark Graebner of New York and Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., set up an all-American semifinals Thursday by winning their quarter-final matches in the West of England Lawn Tennis Championships.

BECKENHAM, England (AP)—Amateur Maria Bueno of Brazil and Margaret Smith Court of Australia defeated professionals Thursday and reached the semifinals of the Kent Lawn Tennis Championships.

In his last start Carlton hit a homer against Atlanta but didn't get the pitching verdict. One of Carlton's first remarks after going hitless in four tries Wednesday night was "Well there goes my hitting streak."

The three-game series ended today when the Cardinals sent Bob Gibson 7-5 against Ferguson Jenkins 6-7 in an afternoon game at Busch Stadium.

Gibson took a string of 29 consecutive scoreless innings and three straight shutouts into the game.

Janet Kay Hart Pledges Vows With Robert Gregory June 8

DEXTER - The marriage of Miss Janet Kay Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hart of Dexter, and Robert H. Gregory, son of Mrs. Allena Gregory of Henderson, Ky., and Mr. Herman Gregory of Mount Vernon, Ind., was solemnized June 8 in the First Methodist church.

The Rev. Robert McCoy officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony at 3:30 p.m. before a setting provided by baskets of fern on pedestals, and an altar table arrangement of two modern baskets of white carnations, and three branched brass candelabra which flanked an open Bible. Illuminating the arrangement were glowing white wedding apers in arched brass candelabra. The pews of the bridal aisle were marked with yellow, pink and green satin bows. As "The Wedding Prayer" was sung, the couple knelt before a brass prie dieu.

Mrs. C. C. Manlove, organist played traditional wedding music as the guests were being seated and accompanied Charles Wigg as he sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "Oh Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of re-embroidered imported Chantilly lace fashioned in cage lines over peau de soie. The bodice of the gown was fashioned with a portrait neckline from a deep v-neck that was accented with lace and two rows of see pearls. Back interest of the gown was created by the chapel train etched in lace-scallops which flowed from the yoke. Pearl buttons fastened the back and smaller buttons fastened the tapering sleeves at her wrists. Her veil of tiered illusion cascaded from petals of peau de soie and terminated at her shoulders. She carried a French colonial bouquet of white and pink elegance carnations with ivy and immediately following the stephanotis. Her jewelry was a groom, and tiny pearl earrings. cloth overlaid with net caught at the corners and the center with clusters of wedding bells. The bridesmaids were Miss Electa Vernon, Central City, Ky., and Miss Jan Carter, Philpot, Ky.

Miss Ringer was attired in a floor-length dress of yellow bonded crepe styled in empire and green. Five branch silver lines with a champagne imported lace overblouse. The two bridesmaids wore costumes of matching styling with Miss Vernon wearing pink and Miss Carter in green. Their headpieces were bonded crepe bows stitched in rows of seed pearls which matched their dresses and they all carried nosegays of large mums tinted to match their dresses and tied with flowing streamers. Gregory chose his brother, Mike as best man and groomsmen were Jerry Overton and Larry M. Gregory Henderson, Ky. Kenneth Harmon, Danville, Ky., and Thomas Carroll, Henderson, were ushers, and lighted the candles prior to the ceremony. The men in the wedding party had black tuxedos and white carnation boutonnieres with the exception of the bridegroom who wore a boutonniere of stephanotis.

Construction to Start on Bridge

CAIRO - Construction on the first phase of an Ohio river bridge to carry I-24 traffic across Illinois from its junction with I-57 at Pulley's Mill in Williamson County into Kentucky was scheduled to start Monday following the approval of a $6,647,771.49 contract bid by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads and the Kentucky Department of Highways, submitted by Traylor Brothers Construction Company of Evansville, Ind.

The initial contract will be for construction of the bridge substructure and approaches. The with additional contracts for the superstructure to be let as construction progresses. Total cost for the bridge is estimated at $12,000,000. Completion of construction is scheduled for 1970 at which time the bridge is expected to be in operation.

When the new bridge is completed, the present Irvin Cobb bridge between Paducah and Brookport will be closed for repairs. The state has already stopped issuing overweight and overlength permits for crossing the new 40-year old span.

The new structure, including the approaches will be over one-mile long with the actual length of the bridge 4,376 feet long and the approaches adding an additional 1,358 feet.

The remainder of the I-24 project will probably be delayed due to new safety standard required by the federal government, William Hazelrigg, Kentucky high commissioner, said.

The pressing need for the new span across the Ohio was a factor for obtaining special exemptions for the new bridge. The superhighway will cut across Massac and Johnson counties connecting with I-57 near Pulley's Mill, 38 miles northwest of Paducah.

The Illinois Division of Highways hopes it can purchase the needed right-of-way for the highway sometime this year. The purchase of the land is included in the 1968 highway program at an estimated $100,000.

According to V. T. Kupel, district engineer of the State of Illinois, the purchase of right-of-way for I-24 will continue in 1969 with structures scheduled to be built in 1968, 1969 and 1970. Grading is scheduled for 1969, 1970 and 1971, with paving scheduled to start in 1969 and continue into 1971. Completion of the highway is tentatively scheduled within four years.

Sikeston, Missouri

Mr. Chas. Blanton, Editor
Sikeston Daily Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. Blanton,
Recently our summer religion class took a field trip within the immediate downtown Sikeston area, with the idea of trying to relate our Christian values to our everyday living.

We were very much concerned with the amount of litter we saw lying around the streets, empty lots and even in yards of residents. Also, in discussing this poor condition, we mentioned the written obscenities occasionally found on restroom walls in our local theaters and schools.

Therefore we would like to make an open appeal to all the young people of the Sikeston area to make an honest effort to put an end to this type of carelessness and obscenity. We make this appeal in an attitude of interest and friendship for our entire Sikeston community, realizing that in order to make this country a cleaner and safer place to live, we need to start in our home surroundings.

Sincerely,
The 6 & 4 grades

Thanking you for your time required to read this letter which is offered in good faith and intended as constructive only.

Very truly yours,

Barley Competes With Other Crops

PORTAGEVILLE - Barley heartening effect on Bootheel for brewing is competing with cotton growers, who have lost interest in the Bootheel this year.

While cotton prospects have improved immensely in the past two weeks because of hot, dry weather, barley for beer manufacture is demanding high premium prices.

Joe Scott, Delta Center field crops specialist, said about 33,000 bushels have been harvested for brewing so far and quality seems to be very good.

Anheuser - Busch Brewers is paying $1.25 per bushel for barley that meets its standards for the brewing of beer. This compares with a price of about 85 cents per bushel for barley as a feed grain.

Scott said rainfall last year right at harvest time hurt the color of the grain, but harvesting conditions have been excellent this year for a quality crop.

Yields have been 35 to 40 bushels per acre.

Several years ago, Anheuser-Busch in co-operation with extension service and other organizations, began encouraging growing of brewers barley in southeast Missouri. Its main supplies up to that time came from the west.

Scott said the weather the past two weeks had had a much as appeared likely at the end of last month.

Scott said it now appears abandoned, possibly two-thirds that about 200,000 acres will as last year, probably would remain planted this year, have held up.

He said about 300,000 acres were planted this spring, compared to a similar amount last year. This year, however, only about one-third has been plowed under and substituted to soybeans.

Had it not warmed up when outlook of half the crop being made it susceptible to various cotton diseases. Wet field conditions then made it impossible to replant cotton where stands were poor and it was feared the another extremely heavy switch-over to soybeans would occur.

Sikeston, Missouri

Mr. Chas. Blanton, Editor
Sikeston Daily Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. Blanton,
Recently our summer religion class took a field trip within the immediate downtown Sikeston area, with the idea of trying to relate our Christian values to our everyday living.

We were very much concerned with the amount of litter we saw lying around the streets, empty lots and even in yards of residents. Also, in discussing this poor condition, we mentioned the written obscenities occasionally found on restroom walls in our local theaters and schools.

Therefore we would like to make an open appeal to all the young people of the Sikeston area to make an honest effort to put an end to this type of carelessness and obscenity. We make this appeal in an attitude of interest and friendship for our entire Sikeston community, realizing that in order to make this country a cleaner and safer place to live, we need to start in our home surroundings.

Sincerely,
The 6 & 4 grades
St. Francis Xavier

Thanking you for your time required to read this letter which is offered in good faith and intended as constructive only.

Very truly yours,

Yard Award To Kirbys In Dexter

Dexter - The Green Thumb Yard Award for mid-June to mid-July goes to the Ernest Kirbys, 102 Trotter Lane.

The Kirby yard is a comparatively new yard, but both grass and shrubs are taking on a "well cared for" look.

Foundation plantings in the front of the yard include red geranium, chrysanthemums, petunias, ageratum and sweet alyssum which will add a variety of color throughout the coming summer and fall months.

Red and white petunias were particularly pretty in the W. C. Cates yard, 310 Boucher, and in a large round bed at the corner of Miller and South Mulberry St.

Petunias lined the driveway at the Cleo Holder home on Boucher Street; the vibrant green coloring of the shrubbery at the Joe Gibbons, 1005 Fannetta; a planter of petunias at 17 Hickory Hills Drive and a lovely blooming vine at 208 S. Sassafras were also noted.

Yards which provided overall neat appearance included the A. C. Catos, 1000 Grant, the Raymond Athertons, 806 West Grant and the J. A. Cranes, 1412 Olive.

In the downtown area, a planter at the Probation and Parole office, West Stoddard, offers a summer spot of beauty with white petunias and caladium.

Two Start Radio School

Kennett - The desire of many young men, and women, to seek a career in radio announcing or a related subject, has led two Kennett men to establish a school of broadcasting.

The men are Larry Robinson, or better known as Larry Robins; and Kenneth Birdsong, or Jack Allen.

Both Larry and Jack are disc jockeys at KBXM radio station located on the North Bypass in Kennett. Larry is also manager of the station. He has 10 years experience in radio and Jack has four years.

Asked why he decided to initiate such a project, Larry said, "Many people requested private tutor lessons, but I couldn't handle them." Therefore, the idea of the school was suggested and Larry, along with Jack, organized their radio broadcasting school and named it KLRB (Kenneth Larry Robinson Birdsong).

Sen. McCarthy's renewal of his campaign and Gov. Rockefeller's revitalized battle for the Republican presidential nomination will give a lift to millions of American voters.

Both are committed to the fundamental basis that neither party's nomination shall be awarded by default. Both boldly challenge the Establishment and insist that the coming conventions shall be for the people and not for the worn-out, hide-bound party hierarchs.

Both know that only by a great outpouring of support from the people, bypassing the machine leaders of each party can we forestall the Establishment.

Both know that the majority of each party do not want the Democrats to nominate the heir of a repudiated Administration or the Republicans to nominate a retreaded loser, a has-been from the past, who is even more dedicated than the Johnson Administration to the foreign policy which led us into the disaster of Vietnam.

Few of us could want Humphrey as president, since, on his record, he is equally responsible with President Johnson for having gone to the voters in 1964 on a PEACE PLATFORM, then immediately after election, plunging them into a war that was being planned at the very time promises of peace were being made!

Often a retail merchant, equipment dealer or lumber yard operator spends all the advertising money he can afford in the period of a month, then criticizes newspaper advertising because it brought him no lasting results.

Being "king for a day" brings a feeling of exhilaration to the advertiser but it has no LASTING effect. Spending the advertising budget in "one shot" can bring in business in a distress sale, can excite the public for a short time, but it will not sell products over any period of time.

The purpose of any business's advertising is to SELL merchandise, this week, next week, next year. The one indispensable secret, if there is a secret to successful advertising, is CONSISTENCY. Look at the successful business and you'll see a CONSISTENT advertiser.

No business man is smart enough to know when each family is in the market for clothes, furniture, a car, a tractor, plow or combine.

There are customers in the market for everything he has to sell, every day. The trick is to find those customers when they want to buy.

Newspaper advertising reaches those customers EVERY DAY. Newspaper advertising NEVER FAILS to DELIVER the MESSAGE.

Try it, CONSISTENTLY.

Rain Expected to Be Less Plentiful

By Leonard F. Hand
Farm Meteorologist
PORTAGEVILLE-While temperature is expected to average near normal through mid-July, rain is likely to be less plentiful than usual for this time of year.

Both high and low pressure systems will tend to follow paths across the northern tier of the Great Plains and Mississippi Valley states. High pressure over the Gulf states will diminish the flow of moisture from the south, and few fronts are likely to penetrate the region to provide the lifting necessary to set off general showers and thundershowers.

This does not necessarily mean that individual storms won't leave locally heavy amounts of water on some farms. Much of the rain we do receive will come in scattered afternoon or evening thundershowers, however, and Deering 3.43 inches, Wappapello this does not usually mean adequate moisture over the Bootheel as a whole. As a rough estimate, about one third of period we may expect an average showery rainfall may enter of 1.66 inches at Poplar Bluff, heavy soils, one half remains in 1.91 inches at Sikeston and 1.73 medium soils and about two thirds works into sandy soils.

With crops growing rapidly during this period, water demands will be increasing at the time when rainfall usually runs 2 to 3 inches below moisture losses due to evaporation and transpiration. A comfortable margin of moisture remains in inches, Sikeston 1.20 inches, the subsoil on cotton land, Charleston 0.91 inches, However, irrigation has already Portageville 0.89 inches, and been called for on corn, and late Delta Center Farm 0.91 inches.

No More Accidents on I-55 Killer Stretch

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Is the 10-mile section of I-55 from Scott City to Benton as a killer stretch of road was enhanced by overpass a "killer highway," another death two miles south more prone to accidents than of the former early Saturday. It was another one-vehicle crash, as any similar segment?

The answer is an apparent so many of them are on this super highway.

The number of fatalities in the past three years there appear to be slightly higher than have been no fatalities on I-55 in for similar sections of the Scott County from the Cape interstate, but there is no County line to the Scott City noticeable difference in the interchange.

But from the interchange these conclusions are there to the interchange at drawn from a study of data Benton, about 10 miles south, compiled by Sgt. George L. there have been eight fatalities, Montgomery, safety officer for three to date this year. From Troop E, State Highway Patrol, Benton south on I-55 in Scott County there have been five fatalities in the past three years.

Injury accidents in the Scott City-Benton stretch are slightly higher than in the other sections. Eight accidents in which there were injuries were noted north of Scott City to the county line, 12 from Scott City to Benton and 11 south of Benton.

It no doubt is the proximity of the Scott City-Benton section of the road that has created the illusion in this immediate area that it is the most dangerous segment of I-55.

Add to this the fact that accidents have been more spectacular - dead and injured lying for hours without being discovered and that fatalities have so far been more frequent, and it becomes clearer why the highway has gained this reputation.

Sgt. Montgomery says - and his records, support it that the principal causes of the accidents in the Scott City-Benton section have been speed and alcohol, sometimes together, sometimes separately.

For example, four of nine accidents this year have involved speed, and two of these were fatal. Another injury accident was caused by drinking and the driver went to sleep.

The same set of factors figured in the major accidents in 1967 and 1966.

"Drinking, ran off road," "Asleep, ran off road," "DWI, following too closely," "Speed, ran off road," are listed as contributing causes of accidents throughout the report.

These same factors are listed as causes of the major accidents in the other sections of I-55 in Scott County.

Despite the critical nature of the accidents between Scott City and Benton, there is no appreciable difference in numbers for this portion of the highway than for any other.

The patrol's figures this year, for example, show nine accidents in this section and eight for the remainder of the interstate south of Benton.

In 1967 there were 12 accidents between the Cape County line and Scott City, 11 between Scott City and Benton, 10 in the next 10 miles southward and six in the remaining I-55 mileage in Scott City.

The patrol's report for 1966 is of the same nature. There were seven accidents from the Cape County line to Scott City, 11 from Scott City to Benton 15 south of Benton.

Nor is there any significant difference in numbers of accidents in the 13 miles of I-55 in Cape County from Fruitland south to the Scott City line.

Sgt. Montgomery said to date there have been 15 accidents, one of them fatal, in 1968. The 1967 report showed 22 accidents and no fatalities and the 1966 record was 14 accidents and one killed.

The highway safety officer, checking the locations, said it appeared most of the serious accidents in Cape County were between Cape Girardeau and Scott County and near interchanges.

There appears to be no basis in existing figures for the belief that the Scott City Benton segment is any more prone to accident than any other section.

However, a longer experience rate - several more years will make the final determination, both on number of accidents and the number of fatal accidents.

Fat Husbands Are the Least Durable Species

Dear Ann Landers: I've read dozens of letters in your column from wives who are miserable because they are overweight. They say their husbands make insulting remarks that they have tried every diet under the sun, but when they become unhappy they eat and then they become fatter and unhappier. I feel awfully sorry for these gals and I am not defending them. What I'm writing about is the other side of the coin. Fat husbands.

How can a woman get excited over a man whose belly hangs over his belt and whose second chin wears out his good silk neckties? My husband was the sweetest and the handsomest man in town when we married 18 years ago. Today he's still a sweet guy but he's a fat slab.

When he tries to kiss me, 50 pounds of excess groceries get in the way. He can't wlk up a flight of stairs without running out of breath. It's pathetic.

Don't misunderstand me, Ann. I love my husband dearly and I'm not looking for a slimmer model, but when the man next door walks the dog in his tennis shorts and he's got a 32 waist and my tummy is flat as a breadboard -- and then my hunk of lard says, "Honey, bend down and pick up the paper for me" -- it's enough to make a girl cry.

Please print this, Ann. Maybe a few fat boys around the country will recognize themselves and do something about it. -- CHICKEN LITTLE

Dear Chicken: Fifty pounds of excess groceries can do more than kill a romance. It can kill a guy. Urge your husband to see a doctor and get himself down to normal proportions. He'll feel better as well as look better. And he'll last longer.

Dear Ann Landers: We hear a lot these days about delinquent children. But what about delinquent parents? Mom and Dad fight like cats and dogs. I wish I had a dollar for every time we kids had to separate them and beg them to stop yelling so we could get some sleep.

Dad's favorite gag is to take embarrassing pictures of Mom and pass them around to friends when they go to a party. Once he caught a picture of her while she was asleep, with her mouth open. Another time he took a picture of her from behind. She was washing the kitchen floor in an old bathing suit and tennis shoes.

Last week Mom put a rubber snake in the medicine chest and

Grabbing Plate Constitutes Assault

By Jack Strauss LL. B.

George was a highly respected physicist. He held many college degrees and was extremely bright. He was also tall, dark and handsome. It was the dark part that created a problem when he was invited to a fancy club to attend a luncheon for scientists.

Being a Negro, the club owner took one look at George standing at the buffet line and grabbed the plate right out of his hands. He also advised George in a loud gruff voice that Negroes could not be served on his premises.

Highly embarrassed, George left the club alone. But, he didn't leave the club owner alone. He sued him for assault and battery.

"Assault and battery is when you either strike someone or you threaten him in such way as to put him in fear of bodily harm," responded the club owner in court. "Well, I did neither. I didn't lay a finger on George and I didn't threaten him. Consequently, I can't be held liable."

"Maybe he didn't touch me," conceded George, "and maybe he didn't scare me, but he sure did grab that plate out of my hands and that should be enough. What's more," George added, "he should be made to pay extra as punishment for humiliating me."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit George to collect for assault and battery? And, if so, would you punish the club owner by making him pay extra for George's embarrassment?

This is how the judge ruled: YES, on both counts. The judge held that it is not necessary to touch a person to constitute assault and battery. It is sufficient to grab something from him, or to touch anything connected with his person, such as his hat or clothing, in an offensive manner. And, concluded the judge, snatching the dish from George under the circumstances then prevailing warranted the payment of additional damages as punishment.

Team Work Saves Small Boy's Life

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Richard Balsat, 50, did not turn a deaf ear Wednesday to the pleas of a small boy in trouble. Neither did Edward J. Hackett, nor the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Cochran of suburban Ferguson.

At that point, Rike and Getz, both 17, appeared and administered artificial respiration. An ambulance arrived within minutes and took the youngster to the hospital. Neighbors pitched in to take care of the other Cochran children so the parents could go to the hospital.

Bloody DMZ Fighting Pawn of Peace Talks

DONG HA, Vietnam (AP) — Despite the bloodbath in the demilitarized zone area so far this year, neither side has been able to get the upper hand.

Like weary fighters, American and North Vietnamese battalions continue to slug it out in a fight that has a seemingly unlimited number of rounds.

"The DMZ has become a pawn of the Paris peace talks," He said the Communists are pushing for a major victory that would give their negotiators in Paris leverage to pry concessions out of the United States and later South Vietnam.

Looking back across five and a half months of fighting this year, another U.S. officer said: "In January I would never have believed they could have kept up the pace or that we would ever suffer so many casualties."

The coming months are expected to dwarf the fighting so far this year that the U.S. Command says has cost about 30,000 enemy dead.

For all the death along the DMZ, and recent U.S. reinforcements, the enemy is still said to have as many combat troops as the allies, the same ratio Hanoi was able to maintain, last year.

Propaganda fed to North Vietnamese troops clearly shows area, the American side has prisoners the line is:

"We must keep up the fight. The outcome of the talks in Paris depends on how well we do in the battlefield."

Intelligence reports say newly arrived troops have been told they are "to complete mopping up operations against the U.S. aggressors who have been defeated for all intents and purposes."

U.S. intelligence believes an indication of how seriously Hanoi's DMZ divisions have been hammered is that in some cases entire replacement regiments have moved into position intact instead of groups of the replacements being divided up among several units.

"Hell, they get a running start all the way from Hanoi to within 120 miles of the frontier before the bombers can go to work on them," one said. "Sure they are getting plenty of replacements, weapons and all the rest of it through. Our job is a hell of a lot tougher and more dangerous."

North Vietnam's potential for seriously mauling a specific U.S. unit is nowhere higher than along the DMZ. Defenses against U.S. aircraft are greater there and North Vietnamese troops have artillery to back them up, something they don't enjoy in large quantities anywhere else in the country.

In addition, North Vietnam's supply lines are shortest at the DMZ while those of the Marines and other allied forces are longest. The U.S. situation is somewhat more serious than it might be because of the comparatively smaller number of helicopters available to keep the Leathernecks mobile.

Despite the tremendous casualties claimed by the U.S. command for North Vietnamese regiments working in the DMZ, the American side has suffered, too.

One American battalion of just over 600 men lost more than 400 killed and wounded in one engagement. Most of the wounded were returned to duty after short treatment and recovery periods. But the battalion effectively was knocked out of action for a number of days.

The Marine command weathered a 77-day siege by two North Vietnamese divisions at Khe Sanh and broke the ring in April with a division-plus operation launched overland from the coastal lowlands.

The Marines have since doubled their battalions in area to eight but report North Vietnamese strength is about the same as it was when the siege started.

Youthful Challenge Sweeps Globe

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It began quietly, no one is sure when or where, and it awoke on campuses at the Sorbonne, Nanterre, Columbia, Berlin, Essex, Frankfurt, Rome, Kyoto, Madrid and other campuses that spark the villages and cities of the world.

It rallied around academic discontent, the fading role of the liberal arts graduate in the modern world, the need to specialize, inadequate classrooms, dottering professors, restrictive rules. It rallied around groups already decrying the war in Vietnam.

It exploded this spring, welding the purpose of student and worker against low wages, too much government, the simple, inescapable horror of becoming part of the status quo.

This was the rebellion of the students; a revolt against established order, ignoring national boundaries, spreading like a contagious disease across Western Europe and on the other side of the Iron Curtain, as well as in American and parts of Asia.

"We have learned a great deal from the student revolt in Berkeley," said one of the leaders of the West German for attorney general.

student revolt, referring to the 1964 furor at the University of California's Berkeley campus. "But we can see that the student movement in Europe is more political and theoretical. Much of the protest in the united States has a moral, and not a political basis."

Whatever the reasons -- and they were complex and varied -- the students tore up Tokyo, paralyzed Paris and beleaguered Berlin.

In March, Polish students in Warsaw began demanding reform, and soon, Czechoslovakia moved somewhat toward a new kind of freedom in the Communist world.

Berlin students found an early martyr in Rudi Dutschke -- "Rudi the Red" -- who was shot and wounded in West Berlin on April 11, touching off demonstrations by students all over Europe.

In France, Daniel Cohn-Bendit -- "Daniel the Rouge" -- became the leader in a movement which says it abhors leadership. On March 22, two days after windows were broken in the American Express office in Paris and three youths were arrested, Cohn-Bendit led an invasion of the administration building on the suburban Nanterre campus of the University of Paris. It was the spark that touched off a crisis that continues in France.

Early in June, about 2,000 leftist students occupied the campus of the University of Rome for three days and there was rioting in the streets of Naples, Turin and Lancia.

Yugoslav college students occupied Belgrade university for eight days.

Even at ancient staid Oxford University in England, students smashed through iron gates grappled with police and staged a short-lived sit-in.

When things seemed to be quieting down a bit, they flared again. President Charles de Gaulle's government on June 12 ordered seven extremist student groups dissolved and banned all street demonstrations in an effort to halt bloody rioting in a new phase of the month-long dispute.

And, Cohn-Bendit suddenly arrived in London, bringing widespread reports that the student unrest in Britain is due for a spectacular change of course.

The center would provide professional services for 58 school districts in Bollinger, Butler, Cape Girardeau, Carter, Dunklin, Mississippi, New Madrid, Pemiscot, Ripley, Scott, Stoddard and Wayne counties.

If funds are approved by the end of the fiscal year June 30, the center is expected to begin operation in July. If funds are not approved, the center's opening would be delayed until January or July of 1969.

The center would make available services which are not available to all school districts in the 12-county area on a cooperative basis.

Areas of services include reading and guidance, as well as psychological and psychiatric.

Hearnes Briefs Legislators

In a message opening the second special session this year, he expressed the hope the legislature could finish its work in far less than the constitutional limit of 90 days. The session could finish its work in two weeks or less.

Besides asking for a capital improvement bill carrying almost $33.8 million in general revenue, the governor gave the lawmakers power to look into impeachment charges against Circuit Judge John D. Hasler of Ladue and to consider ways to alleviate the financial problems of Kansas City and St. Louis.

"It is my hope that this can be short session; however, I do not wish to preclude the consideration in this session of legislation declared necessary to alleviate the financial condition of these cities."

St. Louis Mayor A. J. Cervantes has asked that certain court fees be increased and most St. Louis legislators are reported ready to go along with that idea.

Kansas City Mayor Ilus W. Davis has asked that citizens there be allowed to vote on raising the city's earnings tax from 1 1/4 to 1 per cent but a poll by the governor's office showed little interest among legislators from that area.

If the capital improvement bill passes in the recommended form approved by the House last spring, Hearnes said the uncommitted surplus in general revenue would be $18,653,801.

That is close to the $20 million considered to be a safe operating balance in past years. Most senators who balked at the capital improvement bill last March are expected to approve it with that kind of a reserve in sight.

The governor's speech was one of the shortest messages in recent times -- less than 400 words. The limited nature of the session's job was emphasized in the governor's closing remarks when he said:

"The difficult decision to exclude matters other than as enumerated was reached in the belief and in the hope that this second extra session could be terminated long before the constitutional 90-day limit had passed. I urge careful consideration of all capital improvement matters urban fiscal affairs and articles of

Earlier it had been thought an additional $50,000 would be necessary to help pay the National Guard's riot control costs in Kansas City last April. But that was not recommended because the guard has found enough money to pay the bill.

With the capital improvement bill as the main item of business there was little of the hoop-la and color attending the opening of a regular six-month legislative session.

The bill carries $33,769,361 in general revenue and additional federal or other funds to make the total around $40 million. Included is $5,333,350 in special funds. Most state institutions will share in the building funds.

The bill is almost identical with one approved by the House last March except that an allotment for a science building at Southwest State College at Springfield is $500,000 smaller, thanks to a federal grant of that amount.

Besides the appropriation bill, which the House hopes to pass by Saturday, the House will consider possible impeachment of Circuit Judge John D. Hasler of Ladue.

Charges against him will be taken up next week. A special House committee recommended the action after he was indicted by a St. Louis County grand jury on charges of improper conduct in a divorce case.

Judge Hasler, 56, has denied any romantic involvement with Mrs. Jean Shelby of Poplar Bluff, the plaintiff in the case.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A strict ban on mail order sales of rifles and shotguns was approved today by the House Judiciary Committee.

The vote came just a half day after President Johnson signed into law a similar prohibition dealing with pistols and revolvers and called for tighter restrictions over the sale of firearms.

The Senate Judiciary Committee also was scheduled to act today on legislation to ban shotgun and rifle sales by mail.

The bill approved by the House Judiciary Committee by a 29-6 vote would also prohibit the sale of rifles and shotguns to anyone living outside the state where the sale is made, or to anyone under 18.

House leaders have promised speedy action on the committee-approved bill which can probably be brought to a vote next week.

Russell Millin for Attorney General.

William E. Robinson for State Treasurer.

David Rolwing for Congress.

THE POOR COMPLAIN

The Poor People's Campaign "National Day of Support" is still scheduled for Wednesday, June 19.

TO FIND OUT WHY the poor complain, Robert Southey wrote, "come walk abroad with me." The poor who complain in the nation's capital will walk abroad themselves on Wednesday. The effectiveness of the demonstration is in question, for the Poor People's Campaign is in deep, deep trouble.

The March on Washington was planned as a "massive and militant" non-violent demonstration. So far it has been more militant than massive. The Washington press, according to William Raspberry, a Negro reporter, "has if anything been too kind" in reporting the troubles of Resurrection City.

The top leadership of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference was absent during the early days of the campaign. Even after they did arrive, some of them spent bad-weather nights at a nearby motel, to the distinct annoyance of those bedded down in the muddy shantytown near the Washington Monument.

The big demonstration was to have taken place over the Memorial Day weekend. But from the beginning Resurrection City was plagued by hooliganism, unsanitary conditions approaching squalor, boredom, aimless demonstrations, chilling rain, and an increasing disarray among those who were supposed to organize.

WHAT WAS TO HAVE BEEN a "new city of hope and love" became a sloppy shambles. The Rev. Jesse Jackson, one of the more effective early leaders and the first manager of Resurrection City, was reassigned to Chicago after a run-in with the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, successor to the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. as SCLC leader. Some say a personality cult had begun to build around Jackson.

Bayard Rustin, who structured the August 1963 March on Washington, on June 7 dropped out as coordinator of this year's march. The specific agreements between Rustin and the SCLC leadership, in Raspberry's phrase, were "rejected, publicly and gracelessly." Rustin was replaced as march organizer by 44-year-old Sterling Tucker, executive director of the Washington Urban League. Tucker is being assisted by David P. Rusk, the 27-year-old son of Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

THE FAMOUS civil rights march on Washington five years ago surprised observers by its general atmosphere of friendliness and good manners. The march next Wednesday is somewhat the same in design. After a morning of entertainment at the Monument, the demonstrators will move to the Lincoln Memorial for an afternoon rally. Tucker pledges no acts of civil disobedience or separate protests on Wednesday by the Poor People's Campaign.

The 1963 march drew more than 200,000 to Washington. It now seems unlikely that the National Day of Support—or "Solidarity Day," as it is alternatively called—will do nearly so well. As this is written the population of Resurrection City has dwindled to about 500. One of the campaign's strongest supporters, Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill.), on June 9 urged the people to leave the enclave "as soon as possible, once they have made their point." Their permit expires on June 16.

Although it may be a let-down—or even a disaster, should real violence erupt—the Poor People's Campaign cannot be counted entirely a failure. The Senate has passed a $5.5 billion housing bill. Some progress on jobs may be expected. But Congress so far has proved remarkably aloof to this year's march.

There is no Easy Street if you are to amount to anything.

SIGNIFICANT ENDORSEMENT

The campaign of Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, seeking the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator, got another shot in the arm last night with the endorsement of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, one of the state's most influential newspapers. The St. Louis publication likened Lt. Gov. Eagleton to the late Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., one of the Senate's most progressive liberty while serving in the Congress.

The Post-Dispatch endorsement of the state's second executive officer comes on the heels of Eagleton's endorsement of the state's second executive officer comes on the heels of Eagleton's endorsement by the Kansas City-backed C.C.P., a citizens' reform movement that controls the largest single bloc of votes in Missouri. One is inclined to believe that if Eagleton's backers for the Senate nomination continue in such number and prestige he may be the obvious choice by Tuesday, August 6.

In its endorsement of Eagleton, the Post-Dispatch made an interesting observation about the candidate who has successfully served as St. Louis Circuit Attorney, Missouri Attorney General and now the state's Lieutenant Governor. The newspaper said that Eagleton, if elected, has the capacity to be the kind of U.S. Senator that Eugene McCarthy and the late Robert F. Kennedy have been. The newspaper noted that Eagleton, if elected, has the capacity to be the kind of U.S. Senator that Eugene McCarthy and the late Robert F. Kennedy have been. The newspaper noted that Eagleton offers Democrats a new face, a new image in a year in which both are important.

While Eagleton has been sticking to the issues, a good many Missourians may have the idea that the incumbent junior U.S. Senator, Edward V. Long, is more interested in cronyism than serving with any degree of distinction in the world's most exclusive political organization. Sen. Long's campaign, to date, has been based on his appeal to special interest groups, with particular emphasis on organized labor support. In case any one is deceived, organized labor has already been told who its candidate is to be: Ethical Ed.

The third party in the Democratic race is True Davis, of St. Joseph, whose campaign thus far has been disappointing except in the amount of money being spent for advertising. Davis may achieve some kind of a record in terms of dollars spent to gain the nomination, but thus far he has failed to discuss critical issues that need frank discussion and fresh approaches. It is not too late for him to begin to discuss his views on the important issues of the day, but to date he has seemed to be more content with a large expenditure of cold cash to purchase votes and to make his name well known.

A good many Missourians, including this newspaper, have yet to make a selection in the August Senatorial campaign, but on the basis of developments to date, it would appear that Lt. Gov. Eagleton offers the kind of choice that should appeal to the majority of independent Democrats in Missouri.

Bright spots in every man's memory are the compliments he received when he was a no-account boy.

Home to Roost. In Milwaukee, an electrician treated his son and 39 other boys to chicken dinners in a restaurant, paid the bill with $20 in cash and the worthless $120 check the restaurateur had given him in 1948 in payment for some electrical work.

WHAT DEBT INTEREST COULD DO FOR US

While most Americans are suspicious of the so-called cut in federal spending now under discussion, Rep. John Myers (R-Ind.) points out that the interest on the national debt -- $14.4 billion -- now ranks third in all spending categories. Then he lists some of the things this huge sum could do for the American people if they didn't have to give it to the tax collector:

"That $14,400,000,000 could provide a pair of $12 shoes every other month for a whole year for every man, woman and child in the U.S.

"It could provide nice new $15,000 homes for 960,000 families.

"It could mean shiny new $2,500 automobiles for 5,760,000 proud owners.

"It could build 14,400 million-dollar grammar schools to meet expanding community needs.

"It could build 3,000 completely equipped high schools at a cost of $4.8 million apiece.

"It could provide a college education for 1 1/2 million Americans.

"If that same amount could be invested in industry, it could create more than 660,000 production jobs."

These are just some of the ways this money could be put to productive use in building a bigger and better America for all if the government had not piled up the massive national debt which now totals nearly $365 billion.

This is one of the main issues in the present election and let's not forget it when we consider the candidates and their promises -- and vote right!

What a transformation could be made in Sikeston if residents could see their city daily with the eyes of a stranger?

As it is people hurry to and from work without so much as a glance at familiar landmarks, eyesores, beauty spots, the birds and the bees, the flora and a fauna, the flowers and the weeds, the neat expanses of concrete, the broken pavement and chipped mortar.

They put up with inconveniences in street routes and tolerate the ugly because they have grown accustomed to them. Humans are such creatures of habit.

These observations are not based entirely and negatively on nearly blind acceptance of the familiar, ugly sights and tolerance of undesirable conditions.

Unfortunately they apply with equal force to beauty spots and the eye appealing sights and the desirable conditions as well.

Sherman Grant urges Sikestonians to get into their automobiles and drive to the business section from the airport along the route taken by industrial prospects.

The ride, of course, would serve no purpose unless they looked at Sikeston through the eyes of a stranger.

Another appeal to shed the fog of familiarity comes from sixth and seven grade students of St. Francis Xavier school.

The students toured Sikeston with the idea of relating their environment with Christian values for everyday living. What a wonderful idea?

The students were disturbed by the litter in the streets and the obscenities written on rest room walls in theaters and schools.

There are many standpoints from which a constructive view could be taken of surroundings from an objective standpoint—health, safety, beauty, satisfaction, esthetic among others.

The effort could produce action that would far transcend any short lived Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up campaign.

Houses would be painted. Businesses houses would be renovated and painted.

Delapidated tructures would be torn down. Parks and malls would spring up.

Sidewalks and curb and gutter would be added in many residential areas. Weeds would go. Grass and flowers would flourish. Litter would vanish.

Our daily life would be more convenient, healthy, safer and satisfying.

These changes wouldn't mean much unless residents maintained an objective viewpoint. They must not slip back into the old habits.

They must be determined to maintain the improved appearance and continue to pursue the goal of civic improvements.

THE C.I.A.
The best evidence that the CIA housecleaning administered by Admiral Raborn was necessary is the cacophony of attacks on the CIA by the dismissed payrollers. It is important to note, also, that almost all of the ill-advised and ill-fated projects which he cancelled, and which we have been reading about, had their beginnings a dozen or more years ago. Certainly not all of the bleats have yet been heard.
More and more security breaches must be expected as terminated turncoats tattle all they can tell.
Some will be sensational. But for the most part they will be the last gasp of the discharged
"Frank Wisner" teams recruited by that long-time head of the operational arm of the CIA.

It should be mentioned in passing that in England, for example, these babbling soreheads would be put into jail under the Official Secrets Act.
In our country, they bask in the warming glow of liberal-left

Admiral Raborn put an end to the Wisner era. Wisner himself is dead. Washington police say that he took his own life (as had his friend, Philip Graham, of the Washington Post, before him).
His job done, Admiral Raborn resigned. He was succeeded by a career CIA man, Richard Helms, who knows where the remaining skeletons are secreted.

Leaders of both political parties are firmly committed to the propositions that the CIA must never again be permitted to interfere in domestic matters, financing ad hoc committees, influencing press and political affairs, etc. In the days ahead there will be further reorganization. It seems probable that the very name CIA will be dropped and that there will be a new agency. One hopes that it will come to serve the country with distinction. The chartered responsibilities of the agency are such as to make it perhaps our most important single peace-time agency. There are many loyal men—indeed, unheralded heroes—in the service of the CIA in many foreign lands. It is the nature of their jobs that we cannot know their fames, or their accomplishments.

The important fact is that the incredible clique which ran the operational arm of the CIA for so many years with a brazen contempt for the Congress—and sometimes even for the White House—has been broken up and prided from opposition of power.
And none too soon.

A middle-aged executive was becoming increasingly irritated by the constant ribbing he received at the hands of junior employees who couldn't resist making fun of his baldness. One morning, a particularly brash trainee had the gall to run his hand across the older man's pant while loudly exclaiming
"Feels just like my wife's ass!"

With a look of genuine curiosity, the aging exec also felt his gleaming pate. "You're right," he said, "so it does, so it does."

FASHION HIGHLIGHT: The only fault that could be found with some sport jackets of the past, quiet patterns and conventional cuts, was that they looked too much like regular suit jackets. But the recent transition in models and patterns has overcome this. Today's styles—with bolder patterns in plaids, checks, herring-bones and in tailoring details like slash or overside pockets, side vents, decorative buttons, button-up collar tabs, etc.—are providing a real "sports look."

How can you tell a happy motorcyclist? By the bugs in his teeth!

MAKES SENSE
Congressman Wyatt of Oregon has made a statement which makes sense. He is quoted as saying: "It is about time for politicians in the country to be honest with Negroes and tell them we aren't talking about equal cars, equal houses, equal incomes. We are talking about equal opportunity, which is really anybody in this country can ask... there is a substantial number of people in the Negro areas who are employable if they are trained. I feel strongly favor the tax credit

WASHINGTON—The student revolt is so complex that it's impossible to generalize regarding its origins and frustrations. In some respects it is to the left of Communism. In other respects it's a healthy reach for more participation in political life, which took the form of doorbelling for Sen.
Eugene McCarthy and Sen.
Bobby Kennedy.

It also has international political overtones, as when Berlin students paralyzed the newspapers of Axel Springer, who is so pro-west that his plant is built practically on the Berlin wall. His competitors encouraged the student revolt to the point that Der Spiegel bored its readers with nine issues

Strategy was to set targets which university executives could not possibly accept, then stage strikes if they were not happened.

"I don't care how much trouble men are, I'd rather argue with one of them than to spend my life cutting up beef kidneys for a cat."

"Well, if the rest of you girls think we should have another round, heaven knows I don't want to be the only kill-joy in the crowd."

"Yeah, don't look at the table to the right now. It's the homely guy who is staring at us.
Pretend you don't notice. Maybe the guy next to him—he's better looking—will turn this way. I think he's playing hard to get."

"Well, girls, shall those of us who are free go to an educational program this evening, or meet at somebody's house and take off our shoes and have fun?"

"See him over there—the one with the blue eyes and his mouth full of corned beef and cabbage? Ny-uss, huh. Ny-uss!

"I could get a merit raise anytime I want to, but up to now I don't need a merit raise that much."

"Will somebody please tell Mildred to pull her skirt down?
This is a business girls' luncheon, not a free burlesque show."

"My husband will probably meet me after work. After all, he should. I lent him the money to put gas in the car."

"Well, girls, shall we head back to the salt mine and start finding out where our bosses are trying to hide out for the rest of the day?"

"Yes, here comes Freddy

It is becoming quite evident that the policy of throwing huge sums of money aimlessly at the problem will not solve it.
Rebuilding cities and changing the cultural environment and level of education and training of millions of our citizens overnight is beyond the financial and administrative capacity of our national government. It is time to try a different approach.

"It wasn't that. I just didn't

One incident from the past illuminates the methods of the communists with special clarity.
Ten years ago, Povl Bang-Jensen, an assistant secretary of the United Nations Committee on Hungary, investigated the 1956 uprising in that country. During his investigation he acquired the names of many Hungarian refugees who had participated in the revolt against communist oppression.

He was ordered by U.N. officials to hand over these names, but refused to do so because he knew they would immediately become available to Soviet workers at the United Nations. This knowledge would undoubtedly lead to severe reprisals against the families of these refugees still in Hungary.
Tremendous pressure was brought to bear against him, but he refused to yield. Finally he was summarily fired and ejected from the U. N. building by guards. Death came in 1959, with strong evidence that he was murdered by the communists.

Bang-Jensen's heroism is all but forgotten today. Yet his story clearly shows that the communists will stop at nothing to achieve their goals. The nature of communism is clear. We must not blind ourselves to its evil.

Washington - Merry - Go - Round

Minority of students plotted step-by-step strategy to take over Columbia; One phase of student movement is left of Communism; Another majority phase shows healthy interest in politics.

Mark Rudd, who last fall program for Columbia, giving plans to take over the University, which follows in part:

—CHART FOR REVOLT—
"To be militant is to fight to achieve a specific goal: Let us clearly state that our goal is to end university complicity with the war. IDA (Institute for Defense Analysis), ROTC, CIA contracts, recruiting, etc. But we can never force the university to submit to our demands unless we have behind us the strength of the majority of students on campus. We can achieve this majority at Columbia, where over half of the students are against the war," but we will need real organizational strength to mobilize these people."

The former Miss Mirabella is the daughter of Mrs. Josephine Sacco of Naples, Italy, and the late Vincent Mirabella. Sitzes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert E. Sitzes, 928 Linn St.

A basket of white gladioli with palms on each side decorated the church altar.

Eddie Hubbard, pianist, played "I Love You Truly". He played the wedding march from "Mid-Summer Nights Dream," as the bride was escorted to the altar by Hubert Sitzes who gave her in marriage.

She wore a formal length gown of Chantilly lace over taffeta. The gown was worn over a southern belle hoop. The close-fitted bodice featured a sabrina neckline and long fitted sleeves that came to points over her hands. The bouffant skirt fell into a cascade of sequin trimmed scalloped ruffles. The back of the dress swept to a chapel-length train.

Her headpiece was a queen's crown made of simulated pearls and handcut crystals. Attached was a bouffant veil of imported silk illusion.

Best man was Larry Roberts. A reception was held in the church dining room. The bride's table was covered with a white damask cloth caught at each corner with white wedding bells. A crystal punch service and a three tiered white and blue wedding cake appointed the table.

Serving were Mrs. Floyd Greer, the groom's sister and Mrs. James W. Sitzes of Elgin, Ill., the groom's sister-in-law. Mrs. Sitzes was in charge of the guest book.

Sitzes is a 1965 graduate of Sikeston high school. He has served three years in the navy. For the past two years he has been stationed in Naples.

Mrs. Sitzes will live with her husband's parents while he is stationed at Virginia Beach, Va.

TOO MANY WORDS

DALLAS (AP) - Communication experts are calling this the age of communication, but a Chicago advertising executive said at a meeting here it is the age of "communication pollution."

Edward H. Weiss, head of a major agency, said that in addition to the pollution of water and air by modern industrial techniques, "we are also suffering from the pollution of words."

"People communicate when they speak freely, deeply and meaningfully to each other," he said.

Weiss asserted that words are tools that can be used for three purposes: express thoughts, conceal thoughts and camouflage the fact that there are no thoughts at all.

He urges a communication revolution: write less, read less, answer less. He advocates the spoken word in person for inter-office communications.

Mrs. David Williams

Deborah Leigh Shelby Says Vows With David Williams

EAST PRAIRIE - The Nelson Memorial Methodist church was the setting June 8 at 5 p.m. for the wedding of Miss Deborah Leigh Shelby and David Williams. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Travis Shelby, Jr. of East Prairie and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Williams of Wyatt.

The double ring ceremony, performed by the Rev. Robert Burke, was held before an altar setting of lighted tapers in a 15 branch arch candelabra, flanked on either side by twin nine branch candelabra. Baskets of pink stock and variegated pastel shades were used in decorating the chancel rail and choir loft. The windows of the church were filled with greenery, centered with hurricane lamps holding glowing white tapers. The family pews were marked with pastel ribbon and hurricane standards.

Orville Almond, soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Joseph Webb at the organ, sang "More", "Ich Liebe Dich" and at the close of the ceremony the "Lord's Prayer" while the couple knelt.

The bride, escorted down the white carpeted aisle by her father, chose for her wedding a formal gown of white silk organza and bridal silk. The high bateau neckline rose above a flowing cape, fashioned of organza over a demi-fitted sheath and the brief sleeves were fashioned entirely of lace.

Appliques of the repeated lace pattern, trimmed with seed pearls, rose above the hemline on the skirt front. Her cathedral train of organza featured the appliques on the rich deep border around the train. Her elbow-length bouffant veil of silk illusion was caught to a headpiece fashioned with a cluster of miniature silk roses and rose petals. She wore short white gloves accented with seed pearls and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley centered with a white orchid, attached to a Bible brought over from Jerusalem, belonging to her maternal grandmother. Her only item of jewelry was a diamond pendant, a gift from the groom.

The former Miss Shelby chose as her matron of honor, Mrs. Fred Williams of Columbia. Serving her sister as her maid of honor was Miss Susan Shelby. Miss Barbara Shelby, sister of the bride, Miss Pam Kriesse and Miss Sandra Felts, cousins of the bride, were her bridesmaids. Miss Mari T. Shelby, youngest sister of the bride, was the junior bridesmaid. Candelighters were Miss LaDonna Johnson and Miss Deborah Coots. The honor attendants and candelighters were attired identically in formal gowns of petal pink silk organza. The easy cape style was fashioned with a high square neckline outlined in white lace insertions and brief sleeves designed entirely in the lace pattern were featured. Their headpieces were simulated butterfly petals accented with seed pearls, to which shoulder length veils of matching pink illusion was attached. They wore matching shoes and short white gloves. The bridesmaids carried white wicker baskets of pink rosebuds and blue, pink and white Killian daisies and springer. The candelighters wore wristlet corsages of pink rosebuds.

Williams chose his brother Fred Williams of Columbia, as his best man. Groomsman were Charles Babb, Albert Leigh, Michael Dugan, Bruce and Michael DeFeld. Serving as ushers were Lee Felts, Stephen Yoakum, Charles Lutz and Jon Carson. The groom wore a lily of the valley boutonniere.

Mrs. Travis Shelby, Jr. chose for her daughter's wedding an original design, an afternoon frock of french embroidered silk in haze blue. The bias and a-line skirt was fashioned in easy panels and the coat style was accented with jeweled buttons.

She wore matching accessories of haze blue and white. The groom's mother, Mrs. Donald Williams, wore a gown fashioned in Grecian green. The gown featured a jeweled neckline and short sleeves. Her accessories were in pearlized silver and her headpiece was of Grecian green organza petals accented with seed pearls.

The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. W. M. Chapman of Charleston, wore an ensemble of beige lace with matching accessories, complemented by a pink cymbidium orchid. Her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Travis Shelby, Sr. was attired in a mint green silk illusion creation, featuring a jeweled neckline. She wore matching accessories and a white cymbidium orchid.

The groom's maternal grandmother, Mrs. A. C. Hess of Ill. Mashville, Tenn. and Charleston, was dressed in a yellow and white silk print with matching accessories. She wore a yellow cymbidium orchid. His paternal grandmother, Mrs. Fred Williams of Charleston, was attired in a pink silk dress with which she wore white accessories and a white orchid.

Charleston Country Club. The club was decorated throughout with seven branch candelabra against a backdrop of palms and other greenery. Arrangements of variegated daisies and candelabra adorned the mantle.

The bride's table was covered with a white peau de soie cloth overlaid with white net draped at the corners with white satin bells and bows. The four tiered columned wedding cake centered the table, graced on either side by silver candelabra. A cluster of wedding bells topped the cake, a silver punch bowl and coffee service completed the table appointments. Miss Deborah Woodard served at the punch bowl, Miss Maria Adkison presided at the coffee service and Mrs. Lee Stallings served the wedding cake. Each wore corsages of pink rosebuds. Misses Tommee Ann and Janey Britt handed out rice bags of pink net tied in a darker shade of pink yarn, placed in white baskets tied with pastel bows, to the guests at the reception.

Following a wedding trip to New Orleans and Biloxi Miss., the couple will be at home in East Prairie until fall when Williams will leave to attend Baylor University in Waco, Texas.

The bride, graduated from East Prairie high school and attended Christian College in Columbia.

The groom, a graduate of Charleston high school attended Cumberland Junior College in Lebanon, Tenn. last year.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding were from St. Louis, Sikeston and Jefferson City, Mo.; Belleville, and Cairo, Mo.; Paducah, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Williams were hosts to the buffet dinner which followed the rehearsal of the Shelby-Williams wedding. June 7 at the Holiday Inn in Sikeston. Place cards for forty guests were set at the tables decorated with variegated daisies.

Williams presented his attendants their gifts at this time.

A bachelor party was given for the groom-elect by his brother, Fred Williams, following the rehearsal dinner at the Charleston Country Club.

The luncheon for Miss Shelby's bridesmaids was held June 6 in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Ed Felts. Guests for the luncheon included the mother of the bride, Mrs. Travis Shelby, Jr. and the groom's mother, Mrs. Donald Williams of Wyatt and tendants.

Miss Shelby's chosen colors of pink and white were used in decorating the home for the occasion. Miss Shelby presented her attendants with their gifts, monogrammed pendants, at the luncheon.

All-Star, All-America Football Games Set

NEW YORK (AP)—The first five men picked in the pro football draft are among the 21 rookies who will play in both the All-Star and All-America games at Atlanta June 28 and the Tribune All-Star game against Green Bay at Chicago Aug. 2.

Ron Yary, the big tackle from Southern California who was the No. 1 special bonus pick by Minnesota, acquired in the Fran Tarkenton deal a year ago, heads the list.

Mauch Has No Kicks

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gene Mauch said he had no kicks about the way the Philadelphia Phillies handled his dismissal as manager.

The 42-year-old Mauch held a news conference Wednesday. He said there was no graceful way to fire a guy.

Mauch also refused to knock slugger Richie Allen, whose feud with the manager was one of the major factors in Mauch's firing Saturday by Phillies' owner Bob Carpenter and General Manager John Quinn.

"I'm not knocking Richie Allen," he said. "That son-of-a-gun gave me many a thrill."

As for the Phillies firing him while he was in California at the bedside of his ailing wife Mauch said there was no other way to handle the situation.

"When two people know something there is no secret. Bob and John made up their minds to fire me. They had to get somebody and had to tell the guy."

"It made me almost ill to hear the organization rapped. It would have been 10 times worse if I heard it elsewhere."

Mauch said he hopes to remain in baseball "Number one, of course, you have to be offered a job. But I don't intend to stay out of baseball unless baseball stays away from me."

"I want to be in uniform on a baseball field. It's the greatest way of life."

Mauch said, however he hadn't talked with a soul about a job. "Until I got in the plane Monday to come back to Philadelphia I hadn't given one thought to my future. I was scared about my wife. But she is okay."

KANSAS CITY AP—Inspired by their largest crowd in regular North American Soccer League play this season and Eric Barber's four goals, the Kansas City Spurs defeated the Dallas Tornado, 6-1, Wednesday night.

The Spurs not only padded their Gulf Division lead over Houston to 12 points, 70-58, but attracted 13,641 spectators.

Kansas City now has seven victories, four losses and two ties while Dallas has 12 losses and two ties.

KANSAS CITY AP—Three more draft choices signed with the Kansas City Royals baseball team Wednesday, and will report to the Corning, N. Y., Rookie League this weekend.

The three are John Uelson, 18, of Duarte, Calif.; Richard Long, 21, Pittsburgh, Kan. State College; and Vernon Paul Walker, 21, Colorado School of Mines.

John Williams of Minnesota, offensive tackle; John Garlington of LSU, Wayne Meylan of Nebraska and Adrian Young of Southern California, linebacks; Curley Culp of Arizona State, Kevin Hardy of Notre Dame, and Tim Rossovich, Southern California, defensive linemen; Jim "zazoo" Smith of Oregon, defensive back, and Jerry DePoyster of Wyoming, kicker.

A compilation by Don Weiss, NFL Director of information, shows the home team won less than one-half the time in 1967. The final breakdown was 55 wins for the home team, 48 for the visitors and nine ties among 112 regular season games.

Baltimore had the best home record, 6-0-1, and Los Angeles was the best on the road, 6-0-1.

The Daily Standard, Sikeston, Mo.
Thursday, June 20, 1968

It's a... girl!
Another cheerleader for my family.
A girl, six pounds to be exact, arrived by special carrier yesterday at 5:20 p.m. at the Missouri Delta Community hospital.

I've always dreamed of a basketball team... but had a change during the night to a cheerleading squad as the girl marked the second for my wife (Delilah) and me.

At least we evened the odds a little... Yesterday while at the hospital it was learned that the boys outnumber the girls 3-1 (the exact count), so the odds are 3-2 and if the women expecting triplets were to have all girls... it surely would be a different ward.

Our oldest daughter at three years of age remarked when told of the new arrival... "Daddy... you changed your mind..." yes "was the reply!!"

Seven-foot center Rich Niemann of St. Louis University, top National Basketball Association draft choice, signed Monday with the Detroit Pistons.

Niemann led the Billikens in scoring and rebounding the past two seasons averaging about 17 points and 12 rebounds per game.

Ray Lavender 7-foot basketball player at Kansas State University, will transfer to Drury College this fall, Coach Bill Harding has announced.

Lavender, who was redshirted at K-State last season, will become eligible in the spring semester next year and will be available for the last half of Drury's schedule, Harding said.

Lavender went to K-State from St. Louis Lindberg.

Wilt Chamberlain says he's prepared to sit out the coming National Basketball Association season if the Philadelphia 76ers don't meet his contract demands.

Chamberlain also said he wouldn't mind playing under the coaching of General Manager Jack Ramsay—a departure from his previous position.

Ramsay, who resigned as coach at St. Joseph's College because of health, has always given a flat "No" when asked if he might lift the shoes of departed Coach Alex Hannum. But, when asked about it Thursday, he replied "I'd rather not talk about that."

Chamberlain has said he'd play only under Hannum, himself or Frank McGuire, coach at the University of South Carolina. But in an interview Friday he said: "I would have no objections playing for Ramsay. He's more qualified in present circumstances than anyone else."

On the matter of pay, Chamberlain said: "Some guys are satisfied with what they're getting, but I'm not one of them. I'd rather sit out a year and make zip zero than make something less. That's how much I think about it."

Chamberlain reportedly made more than $250,000 last year.

Private campgrounds are rapidly becoming an important factor in the camping picture. And they are being welcomed by a public that finds the demand for facilities greater than the supply in many areas.

One of the newest and most modern installations in the country is Club Americana campground, opened this spring nine miles west of Columbia, Mo., on heavily traveled Interstate 70. This unusual example of private enterprise operating in an area traditionally left to state and federal government has been greeted with enthusiasm by visitors.

It offers facilities and services attuned to the needs of modern campers, and their increasingly more complex recreational equipment. Besides the basics of sparkling washrooms and showers, campers will find a coin-operated laundry and complete grocery. The new installation is located on a heavily wooded 1000-acre recreational area and presently handles up to 200 units.

While the familiar tent is still very much a part of the scene, the impact of luxury vehicles has created the necessity of all underground utility hookups and other specialized services to fully accommodate guests.

The growing size of travel trailers, for instance, has discouraged the fine art of backing into camp sites. Thus, travelers pulling larger rigs prefer to drive straight into and out of a slot. Such requirements become basic items in a modern camp.

William Houston, who manages Club Americana as a summer respite from regular college biology teaching chores at Christian College in Columbia, cites the camp's large swimming pool as a major attraction.

"The pool, alone, virtually lifts a campground into the resort class," he says. And, as in luxury resorts and motels, swimming privileges are included in the basic campsite rate. Pool fees are usually extra charges in public campgrounds.

Another unique feature that commands attention is availability of furnished rental tents. Permanently set-up with solid floors and equipped with comfortable beds, these tents appeal to campers and non-campers alike. Guests supply own bedding, but stoves and lanterns are available if desired.

The campground is associated with the nationwide Safari Camp system which maintains rigid standards among its members, as well as introducing the rental tent concept to the public.

Affiliation with parent organizations is another positive trend in the private sector of the camping business, closely paralleling that of the motel industry.

Luxury campgrounds of the Club Americana caliber are predicted to increase rapidly in number over the next several years, Houston believes.

The booming popularity of camping is overtaking public facilities, creating a vacuum that private capital is just beginning to recognize.

The final result is expected to be a healthy situation for both campers and the industry. And it should relieve harried public officials of some of the pressure they now face.

The future for private campgrounds which stress quality and service appears highly promising, all observers agree.

A heavy growth of an aquatic weed in the Gravois Arm of Lake of the Ozarks has caused some concern to anglers and dock operators in the area. The weed, identified as water milfoil by Fishery Biologist James Whitley, can be a nuisance to anglers but can result in better fishing. According to Whitley, reports from dock operators state that crappie fishing has actually improved during the past year in weedy places.

Conditions favorable to water milfoil - clear hard water nutrients and cool temperatures - are features of the Gravois Arm, Whitley said. "Control of the weed is possible in heavily used areas around boat docks, swimming areas and boat lanes, but its eradication is impossible," he stated.

A safe herbicide which has a rapid effect on the weed with no hazard to fish is Aquathol granules, 200 pounds to the acre, Whitley said. Aquathol Plus granules, containing silvex, has a more lasting effect, but acts slower. Cost of such treatment is about 38 cents per pound, and the chemicals are available through farm supply stores.

Whitley said the granules should be spread evenly over the surface of the weed beds when the plants are growing vigorously. Annual treatment probably will be necessary, until heavy growth is reduced by natural causes. Similar weed problems can be expected to develop in other parts of the Lake after Kaysinger Reservoir is completed, he said.

Carlton Post's 4th Shutout

ST. LOUIS AP — "I can't let Nellie get ahead of me," Steve Carlton said Wednesday night after he had pitched a brilliant 4-0, one-hit victory for the St. Louis Cardinals over the Chicago Cubs.

The win gave Carlton an 8-2 record and pulled him even in wins with teammate Nelson Briles, 8-5, who shutout the Cubs 1-0 Tuesday night. It was Carlton's fourth shutout this season.

Muffett said that Carlton had a full count on only two batters and three only 102 pitches.

Manager Leo Durocher of the Cubs agreed that Carlton pitched a great game as Chicago extended its scoreless streak to 37 innings.

"He pitched a helluva ball game," Durocher said.

Glenn Beckert was the only Cub to get a hit—a clean single in the top of the fourth inning.

"Beckert hit a fast ball," Carlton said after the game. "It was a good hit, although I thought the pitch was a ball."

Orlando Cepeda's three-run homer in the bottom of the third got Carlton an early lead and he was never in trouble. No runner reached second base as Carlton pitched the first nine hits of his major league career.

"Beautiful, beautiful," said Cepeda after the victory. He said he hit a low, inside pitch from loser Rich Nye for his eighth homer.

It was the Cardinals' fourth straight victory, enabling them to maintain their 5 1/2 games lead over Atlanta.

Carlton, a 23-year-old pitcher from Miami, Fla., says he sticks mainly with a fast ball and curve.

Someone asked Carlton if he'd ever tried a slider and he said, "Muffett won't let me touch a slider."

Perhaps Carlton felt best about now allowing a base on balls. "I had real good concentration tonight," Carlton explained.

Wednesday night was "Well, there goes my hitting streak."

The three-game series ended today when the Cardinals sent Bob Gibson 7-5 against Ferguson Jenkins 6-7 in an afternoon game at Busch Stadium.

Janet Kay Hart Pledges Vows With Robert Gregory June 8

DEXTER - The marriage of Miss Janet Kay Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hart of Dexter, and Robert H. Gregory, son of Mrs. Allena Gregory of Henderson, Ky., and Mr. Herman Gregory of Mount Vernon, Ind., was solemnized June 8 in the First Methodist church.

The Rev. Robert McCoy officiated at the impressive double ring ceremony at 3:30 p.m. before a setting provided by baskets of fern on pedestals, and an altar table arrangement of two modern baskets of white carnations, and three fringed brass candelabra which flanked an open Bible. Illuminating the arrangement were glowing white wedding tapers in arched brass candelabra. The pews of the bridal aisle were marked with yellow, pink and green satin bows. As "The Wedding Prayer" was sung, the couple knelt before a brass prie dieu.

Mrs. C. C. Manlove, organist played traditional wedding music as the guests were being seated and accompanied Charles Riggs as he sang "The Wedding Prayer" and "Oh Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of re-embroidered imported Chantilly lace fashioned in cage lines over peau de soie. The bodice of the gown was fashioned with a portrait neckline from a deep v-neck that was accented with lace and two rows of seed pearls. Back interest of the gown was created by the chapel train etched in lace - scallops which flowed from the yoke. Pearl buttons fastened the back and smaller buttons fastened the tapering sleeves at her wrists. Her veil of tiered illusion cascaded from petals of peau de soie and terminated at her shoulders. She carried a French colonial bouquet of white and pink elegance carnations with ivy and stephanotis. Her jewelry was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom, and tiny pearl earrings.

Miss Carole Ringer of Dexter was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Electa Vernon, Central City, Ky., and Miss Jan Carter, Philpot, Ky. Miss Ringer was attired in a floor-length dress of yellow and green. Five branch silver lines with a champagne imported lace overblouse. The two bridesmaids wore costumes of matching styling with Miss Vernon wearing pink and Miss Carter in green. Their headpieces were bonded crepe bows which matched their dresses and they all carried nosegays of large mums tinted to match their dresses and tied with flowing streamers.

Gregory chose his brother, Mike as best man and groomsmen were Jerry Overton and Larry M. Gregory Henderson, Ky. Kenneth Harmon, Danville, Ky., and Thomas Carroll, Henderson, were ushers, and lighted the candles prior to the ceremony.

The men in the wedding party had black tuxedos and white carnation boutonnieres with the exception of the bridegroom who wore a boutonniere of stephanotis.

Mrs. Hart chose for her daughter's wedding a matching coat and dress of pink silk shantung highlighted with pink appliques. She wore matching pink accessories and her corsage was a cymbidium orchid. Mrs. Gregory, mother of the groom, wore an orchid and blue silk

Construction to Start on Bridge

CAIRO - Construction on the first phase of an Ohio river bridge to carry I-24 traffic across Illinois from its junction with I-57 at Pulley's Mill in Williamson County into Kentucky was scheduled to start Monday following the approval of a $6,647,771.49 contract bid by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads and the Kentucky Department of Highways, submitted by Traylor Brothers Construction Company of Evansville, Ind.

The initial contract will be for construction of the bridge substructure and approaches, with additional contracts for the superstructure to be let as construction progresses. Total cost for the bridge is estimated at $12,000,000. Completion of construction is scheduled for 1970 at which time the bridge is expected to be in operation.

When the new bridge is completed, the present Irvin Cobb bridge between Paducah and Brookport will be closed for repairs. The state has already stopped issuing overweight and overlength permits for crossing the new 40-year old span.

The new structure, including the approaches will be over one-mile long with the actual length of the bridge 4,376 feet long and the approaches adding an additional 1,358 feet.

The remainder of the I-24 project will probably be delayed due to new safety standard required by the federal government, William Hazelrigg, Kentucky high commissioner, said.

The pressing need for the new span across the Ohio was a factor for obtaining special exemptions for the new bridge. The superhighway will cut across Massac and Johnson counties connecting with I-57 near Pulley's Mill, 38 miles northwest of Paducah.

The Illinois Division of Highways hopes it can purchase the needed right-of-way for the highway sometime this year. The purchase of the land is included in the 1968 highway program at an estimated $100,000.

According to V. T. Kupel, district engineer of the State of Illinois, the purchase of right-of-way for I-24 will continue in 1969 with structures scheduled to be built in 1968, 1969 and 1970. Grading is scheduled for 1969, 1970 and 1971, with paving scheduled to start in 1969 and continue into 1971. Completion of the highway is tentatively scheduled within four years.

Barley Competes With Other Crops

PORTAGEVILLE - Barley for brewing is competing with the wheat and cotton crops for interest in the Bootheel this year.

While cotton prospects have improved immensely in the past two weeks because of hot, dry weather, barley for beer manufacture is demanding high premium prices.

Joe Scott, Delta Center field crops specialist, said about 33,000 bushels have been harvested for brewing so far and quality seems to be very good.

Anheuser - Busch Brewers is paying $1.25 per bushel for barley that meets its standards for the brewing of beer. This compares with a price of about 85 cents per bushel for barley as a feed grain.

Scott said rainfall last year right at harvest time hurt the color of the grain, but harvesting conditions have been excellent this year for a quality crop. Yields have been 35 to 40 bushels per acre.

Several years ago, Anheuser-Busch in co-operation with extension service and other organizations, began encouraging growing of brewers barley in southeast Missouri. Its main supplies up to that time came from the west.

Scott said the weather the past two weeks has had a much as appeared likely at the end of last month.

Scott said it now appears abandoned, possibly two-thirds that about 200,000 acres will as last year, probably would remain planted this year, have held up.

compared with about 90,000 acres last year.

He said about 300,000 acres were planted this spring, compared to a similar amount last year. This year, however, only about one-third has been plowed under and substituted to soybeans.

Had it not warmed up when outlook of half the crop being Cool rainy weather following planting stunted the cotton, and cotton diseases.

Wet field conditions then made it impossible to replant cotton where stands were poor and it was feared the other extremely heavy switch-over to soybeans would occur.

Sikeston, Missouri

Mr. Chas. Blanton, Editor
Sikeston Daily Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. Blanton,

Recently our summer religion class took a field trip within the immediate downtown Sikeston area, with the idea of trying to relate our Christian values to our everyday living.

We were very much concerned with the amount of litter we saw lying around the streets, empty lots and even in yards of residents. Also, in discussing this poor condition, we mentioned the written obscenities occasionally found on restroom walls in our local theaters and schools.

Therefore we would like to make an open appeal to all the young people of the Sikeston area to make an honest effort to put an end to this type of carelessness and obscenity.

We make this appeal in an attitude of interest and friendship for our entire Sikeston community, realizing that in order to make this country a cleaner and safer place to live, we need to start in our home surroundings.

Sincerely,
The 6 & 8 grades
St. Francis Xavier
Summer School

Editor
Daily Standard
Sikeston, Mo.

Dear Sir:

I suppose this letter will just reach the waste-paper-basket but anyway that (if you even see it) it might cause some slight change to be effected in the future of The Daily Standard. Don't you really think the jokes are a bit too corny for your paper, now as you say in your 57th year? Certainly your following doesn't demand this type of reading. I appreciate your paper - but you're really run out of news when you have to fill up space with this type of reading which is still repulsive to the same public.

As I stated previously I've often read your paper with interest, but just couldn't refrain from letting you know that I believe your readers (the majority at least) would appreciate "The Standard" holding a little higher standard for its jokes.

Thanking you for your time required to read this letter which is offered in good faith and intended as constructive only.

Very truly yours,
Velma L. Kearbey

100 Attend Art Exhibit in East Prairie

EAST PRAIRIE - The third annual community art exhibit opened at the First Bank of East Prairie Sunday with a reception, attended by approximately 100 persons. Some 47 paintings by 10 local amateur artists were on display.

The paintings were judged by out-of-town judges before the show opened Sunday. The first purchase prize of $50 given by the First Bank of East Prairie was awarded to Mrs. Don Woodstock for her acrylic painting titled "Ice Cave."

Mrs. Woodstock is the wife of the pastor the First Christian Church and moved here from California a year ago. She received her art training there but has worked with local Turpentine's group for several months.

Second place was awarded to Mrs. James Scott for her oil painting titled "Fruit." This was a purchase prize of $30 given by the Associated Natural Gas Co. Mrs. Scott has been painting for about three years and has studied under Mrs. Roberta Hunter of this city and Charles Rheinhardt of St. Genevieve.

Third place, a purchase prize award of $20 went to Mrs. Billy Addison for her oil painting titled "Transparency." Mrs. Addison has also studied under Rheinhardt and is a member of the local Turpentine's group. This prize was given by the Shelby Furniture Co.

Honorable mention was given to Mrs. Hunt Wellborn for her pastel portrait of her son. The exhibit was replaced Saturday by twenty painting by professional artist and will remain on display through June 22.

The Kiwanis Club of East Prairie will conduct a learn-to-swim campaign for local children beginning Monday and continuing through July 20. Children between ages 5 and 13 are encouraged to participate. There is no charge and the lessons will be given under the direction of Red Cross water safety instructor, Michael Euer.

The remodeled and reequipped Sikeston Laundry, 317, East Malone, was opened to the public when 350 attended an open house.

Mr. and Mrs. M.T. Taylor and son, Mike, are the owners. The family purchased the business in 1955 from Volle McDaniels and L.H. Shivel.

The first laundry was located next to the present Missouri Utilities office on Center street. The present building was built in 1928. It was badly damaged by fire early this year.

Yard Award To Kirby's In Dexter

DEXTER - The Green Thumb Yard Award for mid-June to mid-July goes to the Ernest Kirby's, 102 Trotter Lane. The Kirby yard is a comparatively new yard, but both grass and shrubs are taking on a "well cared for" look.

Foundation plantings in the front of the yard include red geranium, chrysanthemums, petunias, ageratum and sweet alyssum which will add a variety of color throughout the coming summer and fall months.

Red and white petunias were particularly pretty in the W. C. Cates yard, 310 Boucher, and in a large round bed at the corner of Miller and South Mulberry St.

Petunias lined the driveway at the Cleo Holder home on Boucher Street; the vibrant green coloring of the shrubbery at the Joe Gibbons, 1005 Fannetta; a planter of petunias at 17 Hickory Hills Drive and a lovely blooming vine at 208 S. Sassafras were also noted.

Yards which provided overall neat appearance included the A. C. Catos, 1000 Grant, the Raymond Athertons, 806 West Grant and the J. A. Cranes, 1412 Olive.

In the downtown area, a planter at the Probation and Parole office, West Stoddard, offers a summer spot of beauty with white petunias and caladium.

Two Start Radio School

KENNETT - The desire of many young men, and women, to seek a career in radio announcing or a related subject, has led two Kennett men to establish a school of broadcasting.

The men are Larry Robinson, or better known as Larry Robins; and Kenneth Birdsong, or Jack Allen.

Both Larry and Jack are disc jockeys at KBXM radio station located on the North Bypass in Kennett. Larry is also manager of the station. He has 10 years experience in radio and Jack has four years.

Asked why he decided to initiate such a project, Larry said, "Many people requested private tutor lessons, but I couldn't handle them." Therefore, the idea of the school was suggested and Larry, along with Jack, organized their radio broadcasting school and named it KLRB (Kenneth Larry Robinson Birdsong).

Sen. McCarthy's renewal of his campaign and Gov. Rockefeller's revitalized battle for the Republican presidential nomination will give a lift to millions of American voters.

Both are committed to the fundamental basis that neither party's nomination shall be awarded by default. Both boldly challenge the Establishment and insist that the coming conventions shall be for the people and not for the worn-out, hide-bound party hierarchs.

Both know that only by a great outpouring of support from the people, bypassing the machine leaders of each party can we forestall the Establishment.

Both know that the majority of each party do not want the Democrats to nominate the heir of a repudiated Administration or the Republicans to nominate a retreaded loser, a has-been from the past, who is even more dedicated than the Johnson Administration to the foreign policy which led us into the disaster of Vietnam.

Few of us could want Humphrey as president, since, on his record, he is equally responsible with President Johnson for having gone to the voters in 1964 on a PEACE PLATFORM, then immediately after election, plunging them into a war that was being planned at the very time promises of peace were being made!

Often a retail merchant, equipment dealer or lumber yard operator spends all the advertising money he can afford in the period of a month, then criticizes newspaper advertising because it brought him no lasting results.

Being "king for a day" brings a feeling of exhilaration to the advertiser but it has no LASTING effect. Spending the advertising budget in "one shot" can bring in business in a distress sale, can excite the public for a short time, but it will not sell products over any period of time.

The purpose of any business's advertising is to SELL merchandise, this week, next week, next year. The one indispensable secret, if there is a secret to successful advertising, is CONSISTENCY. Look at the successful business and you'll see a CONSISTENT advertiser.

No business man is smart enough to know when each family is in the market for clothes, furniture, a car, a tractor, plow or combine.

There are customers in the market for everything he has to sell, every day. The trick is to find those customers when they want to buy.

Newspaper advertising reaches those customers EVERY DAY. Newspaper advertising NEVER FAILS to DELIVER the MESSAGE.

Try it, CONSISTENTLY.

Rain Expected to Be Less Plentiful

By Leonard F. Hand
Farm Meteorologist
PORTAGEVILLE-While temperature is expected to this period ends and will be average near normal through tapping water from greater mid-July, rain is likely to be less depths.

Normal rain for the period mid-June through mid-July for the Bootheel as a whole is 3.64 inches. Normals for individual cities are: Cape Girardeau 3.33 inches, New Madrid 3.89 inches, Caruthersville 3.46 inches, Parma 3.76 inches, Dexter 3.79 inches, Poplar Bluff 3.75 inches, Doniphan 4.18 inches, Sikeston 3.64 inches, Morehouse 3.53 inches, Sikeston 3.64 inches.

Short term averages for other points: Advance 3.46 inches, Kennett 3.28 inches, Bernie 3.78 inches, Malden 3.80 inches, Bloomfield 3.84 inches, Portageville 3.41 inches, Charleston 3.63 inches, Puxico 3.52 inches, Clearwater Dam 3.57 inches, Quin 3.49 inches, Deering 3.43 inches, Wappapello 3.82 inches.

Long term records show that Bootheel as a whole. As a rough estimate, about one third of showery rainfall may enter heavy soils, one half remains in medium soils and about two thirds works into sandy soils.

With crops growing rapidly during this period, water demands will be increasing at a time when rainfall usually runs 2 to 3 inches below moisture losses due to evaporation and transpiration. A comfortable margin of moisture remains in the subsoil on cotton land. Charleston 0.91 inches, However, irrigation has already Portageville 0.89 inches, and been called for on corn, and late Delta Center Farm 0.91 inches.

No More Accidents on I-55 Killer Stretch

CAPE GIRARDEAU - Is the 10-mile section of I-55 from Scott City to Benton as a killer stretch of road was enhanced by overpass a "killer highway," another death two miles south more prone to accidents than of the former early Saturday. It any similar segment?

The answer is an apparent so many of them are on this yes and no.

The number of fatalities in the past three years there appear to be slightly higher than have been no fatalities on I-55 in for similar sections of the Scott County from the Cape interstate, but there is no County line to the Scott City noticeable difference in the interchange.

These conclusions are there to the interchange drawn from a study of data Benton, about 10 miles south, compiled by Sgt. George L. there have been eight fatalities, Montgomery, safety officer for three to date this year. From Troop E, State Highway Patrol, Benton south on I-55 in Scott County there have been five fatalities in the past three years.

Injury accidents in the Scott City-Benton stretch are slightly higher than in the other sections. Eight accidents in which there were injuries were noted north of Scott City to the county line, 12 from Scott City to Benton and 11 south of Benton.

It no doubt is the proximity of the Scott City-Benton section of the road that has created the illusion in this immediate area that it is the most dangerous segment of I-55.

Add to this the fact that accidents have been more spectacular - dead and injured lying for hours without being discovered - and that fatalities have so far been more frequent, and it becomes clearer why the highway has gained this reputation.

Sgt. Montgomery says - and his records, support it that the principal causes of the accidents in the Scott City-Benton section have been speed and alcohol, sometimes together, sometimes separately. For example, four of nine accidents this year have involved speed, and two of these were fatalities. Another injury accident was caused by drinking and the driver went to sleep.

The same set of factors figured in the major accidents in 1967 and 1968.

"Drinking, ran off road," "Asleep, ran off road," "DWI, following too closely," "Speed, ran off road," are listed as contributing causes of accidents throughout the report.

These same factors are listed as causes of the major accidents in the other sections of I-55 in Scott County.

Despite the critical nature of the accidents between Scott City and Benton, there is no appreciable difference in numbers for this portion of the highway than for any other.

The patrol's figures this year, for example, show nine accidents in this section and eight for the remainder of the interstate south of Benton.

In 1967 there were 12 accidents between the Cape County line and Scott City, 11 between Scott City and Benton, 10 in the next 10 miles southward and six in the remaining I-55 mileage in Scott City.

The patrol's report for 1968 is of the same nature. There were seven accidents from the Cape County line to Scott City, 11 from Scott City to Benton 15 south of Benton.

Nor is there any significant difference in numbers of accidents in the 13 miles of I-55 in Cape County from Fruitland south to the Scott City line.

Sgt. Montgomery said to date there have been 15 accidents, one of them fatal, in 1968. The 1967 report showed 22 accidents and no fatalities, and the 1968 record was 14 accidents and one killed.

The highway safety officer, checking the locations, said it appeared most of the serious accidents in Cape County were between Cape Girardeau and Scott County and near interchanges.

There appears to be no basis in existing figures for the belief that the Scott City Benton segment is any more prone to accident than any other section.

However, a longer experience rate several more years will make the final determination, both on number of accidents and the number of fatal accidents.

Fat Husbands Are the Least Durable Species

Dear Ann Landers: I've read dozens of letters in your column from wives who are miserable because they are overweight. They say their husbands make insulting remarks that they have tried every diet under the sun, but when they become unhappy they eat and then they become fatter and unhappier. I feel awfully sorry for these gals and I am not defending them. What I'm writing about is the other side of the coin. Fat husbands.

How can a woman get excited over a man whose belly hangs over his belt and whose second chin wears out his good guy. Urge your husband to see a doctor and get himself down to normal proportions. He'll feel better as well as look better. And he'll last longer.

Dear Ann Landers: We hear a lot these days about delinquent children. But what about delinquent parents? Mom and Dad fight like cats and dogs. I wish I had a dollar for every time we kids had to separate them and beg them to stop yelling so we could get some sleep.

Dad's favorite gag is to take embarrassing pictures of Mom and pass them around to friends when they go to a party. Once he caught a picture of her while she was asleep, with her mouth open. Another time he took a picture of her from behind. She was washing the kitchen floor in an old bathing suit and tennis shoes.

Last week Mom put a rubber snake in the medicine chest and

I'm not looking for a slimmer model, but when the man next door walks the dog in his tennis shorts and he's got a 32 waist and his tummy is flat as a breadboard - and then my hunk of lard says, "Honey, bend down and pick up the paper for me" - it's enough to make a girl cry.

Please print this, Ann. Maybe a few fat boys around the country will recognize themselves and do something about it. --- CHICKEN LITTLE

Dear Chicken: Fifty pounds of excess groceries can do more than kill a romance. It can kill a guy. Urge your husband to see a doctor and get himself down to normal proportions. He'll feel better as well as look better. And he'll last longer.

Dover Named MOPAC Agent

50 Years Ago
June 20, 1918

J.E. Dover has been appointed Missouri-Pacific station agent at Sikeston to succeed C.A. Fink, who resigned about a month ago to take up other railroad work at Illmo.

The Missouri Pacific railroad company is placing a signal tower at the Scott street crossing near the freight depot in Sikeston. It is what is known as a "wig wag" electric crossing signal. At the approach of a train a bell rings and a red flag is shown.

Dr. Frank O'Kelley of Carthage, formerly of Sikeston, will leave soon to join the M.O.R.C. His family have returned here to reside during his absence.

40 Years Ago
June 20, 1928

Chas. Frank has been named as local manager for the Sikeston unit of the H. & M. chain stores. E. L. Kahle, one of the owners of the stores, who had been in Sikeston since his company bought the Sikeston Mercantile Co. store three weeks ago, returned to his home in Benton, Ill., the first of the week.

Team Work Saves Small Boy's Life

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Richard Balsat, 50, did not turn a deaf ear Wednesday to the pleas of a small boy in trouble. Neither did Edward J. Hackett, nor Danny Rike, nor Edward Getz, nor the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Cochran of suburban Ferguson.

As a result of their efforts 8-year-old Thomas Cochran is alive and recovering in DePaul Hospital from the effects of nearly drowning. And they have made it easier for the parents to stay near the bedside of their son. Tommy and his 10-year-old Michael, were playing near a deep pool at the end of a drainage pipe in suburban Ferguson Wednesday. Tommy stooped to pick up a baseball picture card at the edge of the pool and fell into the deep water.

Michael ran for help. He found Balsat of St. Louis unloading his truck. He told Balsat what had happened.

Balsat, joined by Hackett immediately ran to the pool. Without hesitation, Balsat dived into the pool and found the youngster.

At that point, Rike and Getz both appeared and administered artificial respiration. An ambulance arrived within minutes and took the youngster to the hospital. Neighbors pitched in to take care of the other Cochran children so the parents could go to the hospital.

Bloody DMZ Fighting Pawn of Peace Talks

DONG HA, Vietnam (AP) - Despite the bloodbath in the demilitarized zone area so far this year, neither side has been able to get the upper hand.

Like weary fighters, American and North Vietnamese battalions continue to slug it out in a fight that has a seemingly unlimited number of rounds.

"The DMZ has become a pawn of the Paris peace talks," one senior U.S. officer said.

He said the Communists are pushing for a major victory that would give their negotiators in Paris leverage to pry concessions out of the United States and later South Vietnam.

Looking back across five and a half months of fighting this year, another U.S. officer said: "In January I would never have believed they could have kept up the pace or that we would ever suffer so many casualties."

The coming months are expected to dwarf the fighting DMZ while those of the Marines so far this year that the U.S. Command says has cost about 200 enemy dead.

For all the death along the DMZ and recent U.S. reinforcements, the enemy is still said to have as many combat troops as the allies, the same last year.

Propaganda fed to North Vietnamese troops clearly shows Hanoi's thinking. As reported by prisoners the line is:

"We must keep up the fight. The outcome of the talks in Paris depends on how well we do in the battlefield."

Intelligence reports say newly arrived troops have been told they are "to complete mopping up operations against the U.S. aggressors who have been defeated for all intents and purposes."

U.S. intelligence believes an indication of how seriously Hanoi's DMZ divisions have been hammered is that in some cases entire replacement regiments have moved into position intact instead of groups of replacements being divided up among several units.

"Hell, they get a running start all the way from Hanoi to within 120 miles of the frontier before the bombers can go to work on them," one said. "Sure they are getting plenty of replacements, weapons and all the rest of it through. Our job is a hell of a lot tougher and more dangerous."

North Vietnam's potential for seriously mauling a specific U.S. unit is nowhere higher than along the DMZ. Defenses against U.S. aircraft are greater there and North Vietnamese troops have artillery to back them up, something they don't enjoy in large quantities anywhere else in the country.

In addition, North Vietnam's supply lines are shortest at the DMZ while those of the Marines and other allied forces are longest. The U.S. situation is somewhat more serious than it might be because of the comparatively smaller number of helicopters available to keep the Leathernecks mobile.

Despite the tremendous casualties claimed by the U.S. command for North Vietnamese regiments working in the DMZ area, the American side has suffered, too.

One American battalion of just over 600 men lost more than 400 killed and wounded in one engagement. Most of the wounded were returned to duty after short treatment and recovery periods. But the battalion effectively was knocked out of action for a number of days.

The Marine command weathered a 77-day siege by two North Vietnamese divisions at Khe Sanh and broke the ring in April with a division-plus operation launched overland from the coastal lowlands.

The Marines have since doubled their battalions in the area to eight but report North Vietnamese strength is about the same as it was when the siege started.
